CORDON HOLDS

FIERCE ATTACK BY FANG

STREET FIGHTING IN KAOLIYING

JAPANESE BOMB GOVT. TROOPS

(Our Own Correspondent).

(By Telegraph. Copyright, Telegraphic News Service, 1933. Received September 28, 6.15 a.m.)

Peking, Sept. 28.

Graphic stories of fierce fighting in the streets of the walled town of Kaoliying disposed this morning of the belief that General Fang Cheng-wu's forces were retreating into Charhar unmolested.

Official reports show that Fang Chen-wu actually made a determined attempt to smash through the cordon of Government troops lining the Tangku Armistice Line, and that although the desperate bid failed, with heavy loss of life, he has not yet abandoned the effort.

The main attack was centred on the town of Kaoliying, which is only eighteen miles to the north of Peking.

STREET FIGHTING.

Fang's forces were launched upon a sweeping assault and succeeded in getting a foothold in the city, where heavy fighting occurred in the streets.

The battle raged for twenty-four hours, according to official advices, after which the intruders finally beat a hasty retreat, leaving over a hundred dead and several hundred wounded.

During the height of the engagement a squadron of Japanese bombing planes swooping low dropped bombs killing several Government soldiers.

AN ERROR?

It is supposed that the bombing of Government troops was in error. Fang's forces are now moving westward along the armistice line, feeling their way and seeking out a possible weak link in the cordon thrown out by General Ho Ying-ching.

A number of tentative attacks have been made at different points, but all have been repulsed and it is not thought that they will find a place to break through.

Further skirmishes have since been reported near Tangshan, the hot springs resort, within easy motoring distance of Peking.

FLYING VISIT TO FAR EAST

CAPT. WALLACE'S PLANS

LEAVING ON SATURDAY

26 YEARS IN THE COLONY

London, Sept. 27. Captain Euan Wallace, Civil Lord of the Admiralty, who is paying an official visit to British naval stations in the Far and Middle East, means to travel fast.

He is leaving London on Saturday next and he reckons to cover 20,000 miles in fifty-one days.

He will travel from England to Rangoon by Imperial Airways machine, taking advantage of the service newly established. From Rangoon he will travel by flying-boat to Singapore, after which he will proceed to Hongkong by P. and O. liner.

Captain Wallace will be in Hongkong, it is hoped, in time to participate in the Trafalgar and Naval Day celebrations.

After his visit to Hongkong he will proceed to Colombo and Trincomali by steamer, joining the

COTTON PARLEY AT SIMLA

EXTENSION OF THE CONVENTION

London, Sept. 27.

Representatives of the Governments of India and Japan at Simla are now engaged in negotiations for a new trade agreement. A delegation of the Lancashire Textile Industries are in attendance.

The new agreement is to replace the existing Simla Convention of 1907, six months' notice of the termination of which becomes effective on October 10. It is understood that the Japanese Ambassador in London was informed by the Foreign Office a few days ago that the Government of India were willing that the convention should be prolonged and the existing duties will be maintained at their present level for one month after October 10, 1933.

If a further extension should be necessary the Government of India would ask for an extension for a reasonable period thereafter on terms to be decided.—British Wireless.

The riding tests for the subscription griffins which arrived in the Colony aboard the Taming, will take place at the racecourse tomorrow at 12.45 p.m.

The draw for the ponies accepted by the Stewards will be held at the stables at five o'clock to-morrow.

U.S. THOROUGHLY ALARMED

SERIOUS GROWTH OF STRIKES

RISING COSTS OF LIVING

WASHINGTON, SEPT. 27. REALISATION IS GROWING THROUGHOUT THE COUNTRY THAT THE NATIONAL RECOVERY ADMINISTRATION HAS APPARENTLY REACHED THE END OF ITS ACCOMPLISHMENTS AND A WIDESPREAD FEELING IS SPRINGING UP THAT THE NATURAL FORCES OF RECOVERY MUST NOW BE LEFT TO EMERGE.

No blame is attached to President Roosevelt by those who declare the recovery programme to have failed. It is thought that the measures taken will be immensely valuable in their long-range effect, but no attempt is now made to hide the belief that the prosperity drive has lost its forward impetus.

There is, indeed, a fear that things may grow worse instead of better. The gravity of the situation is revealed and emphasised by the statistics of the National Industrial Conference Board showing that real earnings during August declined by 1.8 per cent.

The figures derived by offsetting wage increases against price increases:

Real wages are lower than in July despite the fact that employment and money wages increased by 8.6 per cent. and 9.2 per cent. respectively.

These increases were, however, more than offset by an 8.9 per cent. decline in actual working hours and by the rise in the cost of living.

The failure of the banks to permit the expected flow of credit to industry is being seized upon in some quarters to support allegations that the bankers are opposed to the Roosevelt programme.

STRIKE CRISIS

Meanwhile, the strike situation throughout the country is growing steadily worse.

The position may be summed up, roughly, as follows:

In New York, there are between 75,000 and 100,000 workers who have downed tools in various trades.

At Detroit, a strike of motor-car workers and tool workers involves at least eight thousand men.

Several thousand are out at Chester, Pennsylvania, being mostly employees of the Ford Company's works, which has been closed down indefinitely.

At Paterson, New Jersey, it is the silk factory workers who are on strike. The number runs into many thousands.

BREAD DELIVERY STOPPED.

Bread-and-butter drivers are on strike in Philadelphia, causing a restriction of bread deliveries. This affects few, resulting only in a little inconvenience.

At Pittsburgh, the coal strike is rapidly spreading and the number of miners out all over the country runs into six figures.

Eight thousand steel workers are in voluntary idleness at Weirton, Pennsylvania.

NEW YORK COMMENT.

Discouragement over the National Recovery Administration experiment is leading the Roosevelt Administration deeper into a grave internal crisis.

"Whether the country knows it or not," declares this paper, "official circles in Washington are tending to become disengaged over the experiment of the N.R.A." The paper declares that the difficulties derive from the fact that the N.R.A. has given rise to an inflationist movement.—Reuter.

DARROW SPEECH.

In a speech at Kinsman, Ohio, Mr. Clarence Darrow said:

"The president is brave, honest, and pretty intelligent, I am hopeful, but there is much I do not understand. How can it help to destroy food, and cotton, and clothing?

"They're going to pay farmers not to farm. They're going to bring back prosperity to the country if they have to kill every hog in it. (I mean the kind of hogs that are good for something—that you can eat.)"

"But unless the wealth of the world is put back in the hands of those who produced it, tinkering is useless. Producing wealth is the easiest thing we do. But the captains of industry have snatched away 'out of your heritage' by putrid bonds and worthless stocks. There is not too much of anything. The trouble with this country, and with the world, is that we have not learned to distribute wealth."

TOKYO MURDER PLOT

SIX LABOUR LEADERS ACCUSED: ASTOUNDING PLANS

Tokyo, Sept. 28.

Charged with attempted murder and incendiarism, six members of the Patriotic Labour Party who were arrested in connection with a plot to murder members of the Cabinet were formally indicted this morning.

The plot, together with others, were aiming at the fundamental reconstitution of the State. They planned to assassinate minor officials on July 11th while the Cabinet was in session, and murder all present. They were to simultaneously attack and set fire to Count Makino's residence.

Further arrests are continuing in connexion with the financing of the plot, which is alleged to be of an even wider scope than last year's conspiracy of May 10th, when Premier Inukai was assassinated.

DISARMAMENT SETBACK

NEGOTIATIONS NEAR DEADLOCK

Geneva, Sept. 27. The disarmament negotiations appear to have reached a stage remarkably akin to a deadlock.

It is persistently reported that an attempt will be made to adjourn the meeting of the General Commission for at least a fortnight. —Reuter.

SHING MUN WATER

FACTS AND FIGURES IN P.W.D. REPORT

MUCH RUNS TO WASTE

The importance of Shing Mun to the Colony's water supply system is revealed in the D.P.W.D.'s Report for 1932.

Although the amount available from Shingmun was over a thousand million gallons less than in the previous year, it was still greatly in excess of the Colony's total storage capacity at the present time.

The total yield of the Shing Mun River as measured by the Recorder-and-V. Gauge at the Upper intake was 4017.56 million gallons as compared with 5098.45 million gallons in 1931.

In addition 138.44 million gallons were obtained from the Needle Hill stream intake. The pumps below Pineapple Pass worked on 224 days during the year and delivered 48.32 million gallons equivalent to 218,000 gallons per working day. During the year 1864.57 million gallons were delivered from the Shing Mun Valley through the tunnels into the Reception Reservoir, but a large percentage of this quantity could not be stored and ran to waste. The minimum monthly yield was in May when the quantity delivered was 62.63 million gallons.

Another girl, aged 13, who is known as Lam.

Tsim Ching, 26, a male tenant, suffered from serious injuries when he leapt from a burning upper floor, and is reported to have since died in hospital.

STAIRCASE ABLAZE.

The fire broke out with startling suddenness in the second floor of the building, and as is usually the case with these old Chinese tenements, one of the first parts attacked was the wooden staircase. Cut from escape into the street, the majority of the third floor tenants, comprising of women and children, rushed into the lower floor and were either suffocated or burnt to death.

Meanwhile, the Fire Brigade, which had rushed all available appliances to the spot, were helpless in the face of water shortage by reason of the closing down of the mains. Their difficulties when water was available at long last were added to by a narrow and sloping street, and by a dense mass of spectators.

LEAPS FOR LIFE.

In a helpless position, a number of the upper floor inmates, preferred the consequences of a leap into the street rather than endure a slow and agonizing death, and a number were injured when they exercised this choice.

By the time the fire was extinguished the building was reduced to a skeleton, while adjoining structures received their share of destruction.

FIRE TRAGEDY

SIX KILLED IN EASTERN ST.

WATER SHORTAGE DISASTER

SEVERAL HURT

LEAPS FROM UPPER FLOORS

Six people were killed, and two others seriously injured, in a disastrous fire at an early hour this morning at No. 36 Eastern Street, which adjoins the Government Civil Hospital.

It seems to have been a tragedy of the water shortage, for an official report vouches for the fact that a delay of 25 minutes intervened before water, held up by the restrictions, could be released through the mains. By that time the fire was raging like an inferno, jeopardising all efforts at rescue and sealing the fate of the many people trapped in the building.

DEATH ROLL.

The list of those who perished follows:

Lam Yiu-ching, 22, a married woman.

Wong Shuet-lan, a 16-year-old servant girl.

"If you would speak to Margaret, she would speak to you, wouldn't she?"

"She won't get the chance. Anyway none of the girls ever speak to other girls they are mad at."

friends, the ones you speak to and the ones you don't?"

"I...don't...understand...you...mother."

"Margaret's still your friend, isn't she? I mean she will be in a week or so. You aren't going to stay mad at her until you are both old ladies."

"Yes, I am."

"Look here, my dear, you know better than that. You'll be speaking to her to-morrow. And I think you should be ashamed of yourself."

"Me! Why, mother, everyone does it. If you told the girls they ought to be ashamed of themselves for that they would think you were crazy."

"Oh, they would, would they? Well, I'm not concerned about the girls. I'm only concerned about you, Amy. You are not going to do it any more. I won't have it. You are enjoying being mad at Margaret, as you call it. You love to toss your head and snub her, I can see it. You were whispering to Agnes a while ago and I suppose you did it so Margaret would see you and be uncomfortable."

Amy went reluctantly and the two girls made up. But already Amy was wondering who else she could be mad at next. It gets to be a habit. It should be stopped. This little girl's mother was wise, and she was right.

Being habitually "mad" at somebody is a sort of orgy of hatefulness. It should have no place in any child's life.

Growing Into a Habit

Amy looked at her mother with new interest. This was exactly what had happened. All except one thing. She wasn't enjoying it, or at least she said so.

"Yes, you are, or you wouldn't do it, my dear. We don't do things we don't enjoy. We enjoy getting angry. Did you ever know that? People have quick tempers, for instance, because they like to be all excited and shout mean things.

"And all this 'mad' business of yours is something like that. You get a big kick out of it. So does Margaret, probably."

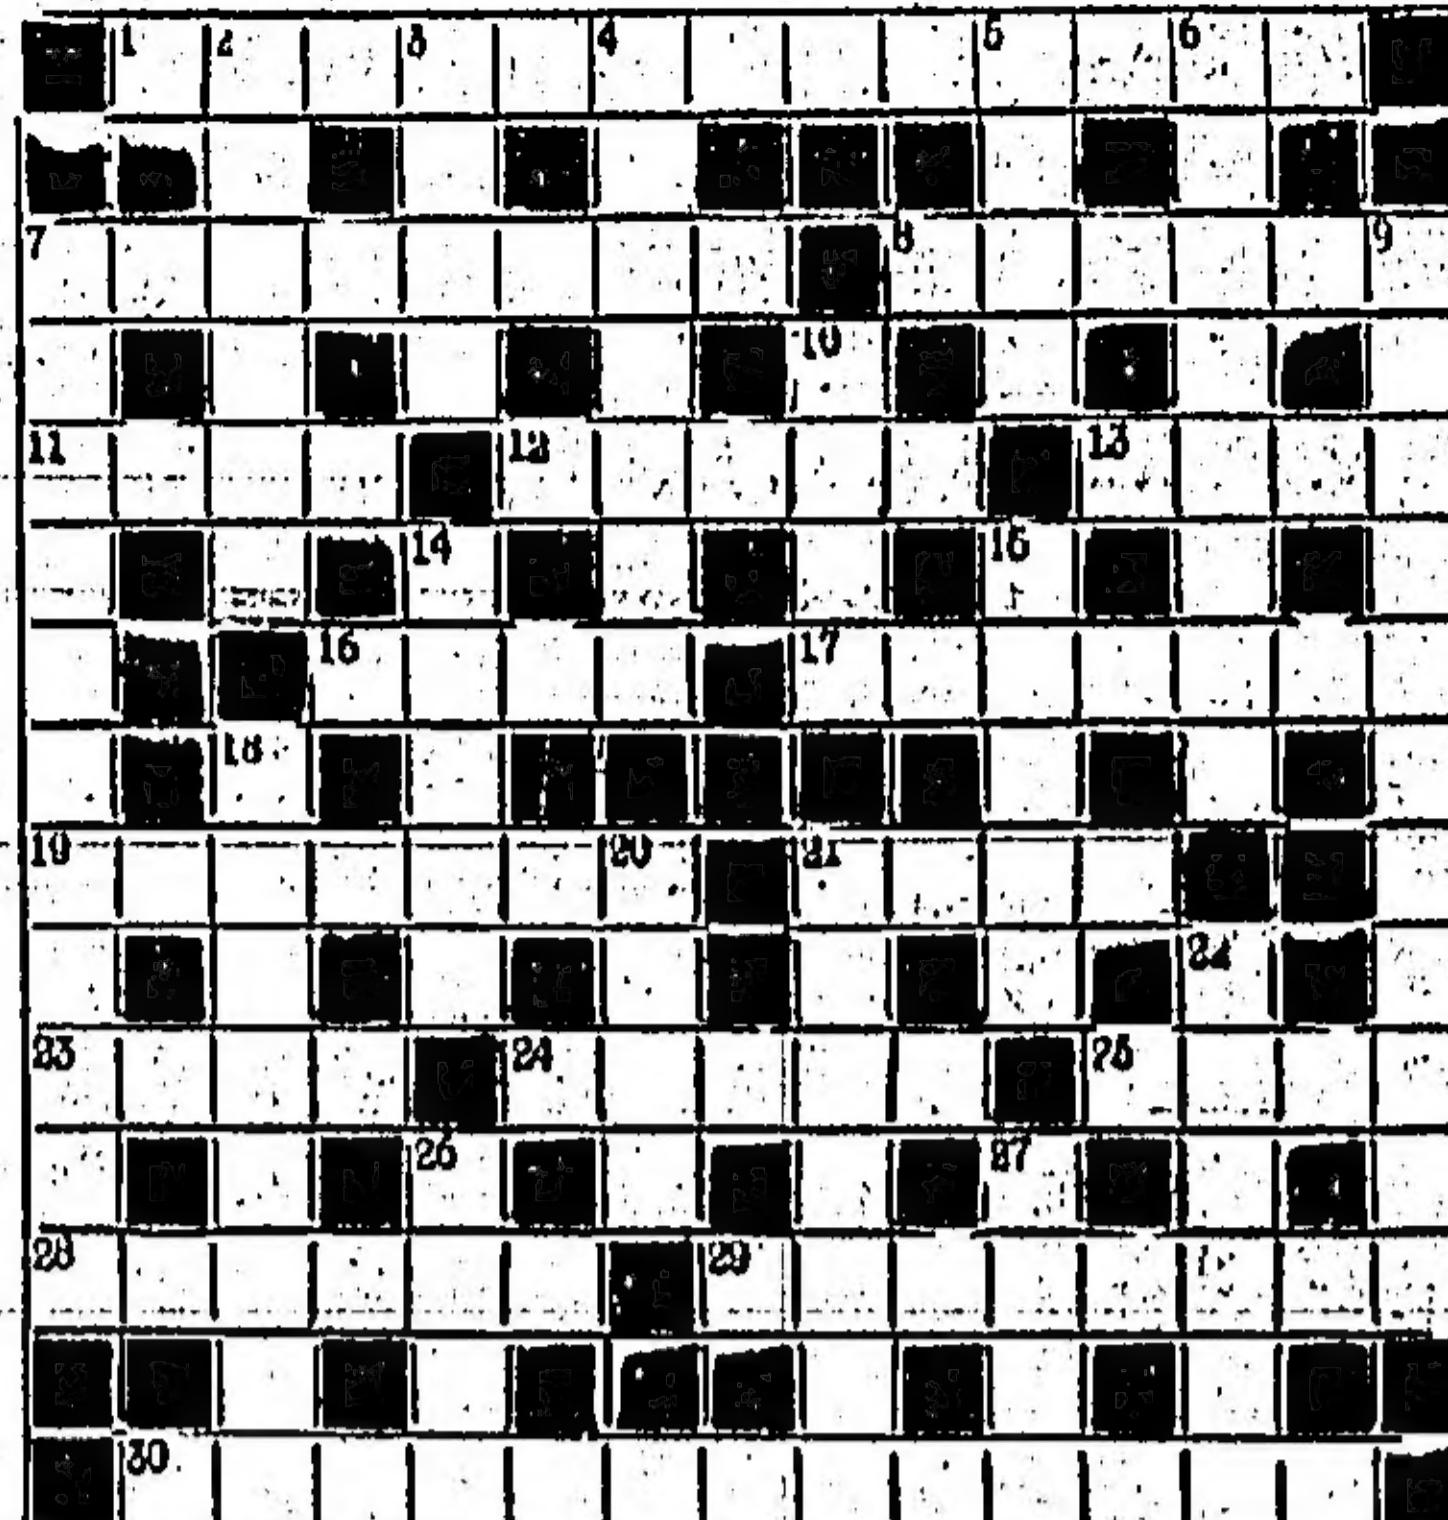

"But anyway, I won't have it. It has to stop. You go right over to her now and make up."

Amy went reluctantly and the two girls made up. But already Amy was wondering who else she could be mad at next. It gets to be a habit. It should be stopped. This little girl's mother was wise, and she was right.

FOR THE LOVE OF EVE BY LUCY WALLING

when her grandmother gave her a neat package at parting. "Open it when you get home," she said. "I made one for Esther and one for Lena's Ruth. Thought it wouldn't seem right not to make one for you, too."

Guided by some intuition, Eve opened the package when she was alone. In it was a crib quilt—an intricate, lovely pattern in pink and white, with blocks only an inch square and stitches "as fairy foot long." Her grandmother had made the quilt years ago, Eve was certain—before her old hands had lost their skill. Eve did not tell Dick or her mother of the gift and, oddly enough, neither of them questioned her about it.

When her vacation was at last

at an end and it was time to return to Lake City, Eve was both anxious and reluctant to go. What would the next few months do with her life and career and with Dick's?

The afternoon following her return to the store Eve stood at her desk wearing an old smock over her trim black gown. Before her was a layout sheet and she was pasting into place sketches and captions. Arlene was busy transcribing shorthand notes, while Mrs. Penney worked at her drawing board. Mona was somewhere in the store.

To Eve's amazement a policeman entered and asked for "Miss Bayless."

For the LOVE of EVE by Lucy Walling

CHAPTER XXXIII

Arlene put one finger to her lips, cautioning quiet, as Eve told her about the disappearance of the diamond ring.

"But I must find it!" moaned Eve.

"It was Mona, of course," said Arlene. "I remember that I saw her coming into the office when I stepped out of the elevator. She was alone here for a full minute and you know she always makes a bee-line for the mirror the minute he comes in! She's in Barnes' office now and he didn't send for her, either. Evidently she didn't want to be present when you discovered that the ring was gone."

Mona emerged from Barnes' office a little later, picked up a supply of copy paper and set to work typing. But Eve and Arlene were not deceived by this show of industry. In a few minutes Mona rose leisurely and strolled for the door.

"Oh, Miss Allon!" Eve called as Mona, apparently without abruptness, arose and left the office.

"Yes?" Mona paused reluctantly by Eve's desk.

"Don't you think your little joke has gone far enough?" Eve held out her hand. "I'll take my ring now if you don't mind."

Mona forced a sickly smile.

"Wondered how long it would be before you missed it," she mumbled, dropping the ring into Eve's palm.

When the time for her two weeks' vacation arrived Eve found herself strangely reluctant to leave Lake City. She tried to convince Dick that she did not need to go away for a rest. "We can take little drive into the country every day," she said. "I'll rest a lot and we can go out to dinner evenings. That way we won't spend much. If we went to a smart hotel I'd need a lot of new clothes."

"A hotel at some popular resort is not my idea of a vacation," Dick returned. "Seems silly to me to try to impress people we've never seen before and probably never will see again. You have plenty of clothes and we're going on a vacation trip. It will do you good to get away from the smoke of your own chimney."

They argued the question for several days. Eve's real reason for not wanting to leave Lake City was that she did not like to lose touch with the brokerage office. However Dick won out and Eve agreed to the trip.

"We'll go home," she decided. "Mother will be glad and I can help Esther take care of her. We won't have to spend a lot of money, either."

Bixby's closed at 1 o'clock on Saturday during the summer. At 1:15 Eve, feeling happy and excited, stepped into the roadster beside Dick.

"We'll lunch at the first attractive place we find along the way," he announced. "Our vacation doesn't really begin until we've left Lake City behind."

The trip was to be made in leisurely fashion. Dick had mapped out a route they had not travelled before. They kept to pleasant by-roads, winding among hills and along streams. The first night they lodged at a historic tavern.

orn where, they were told, President Van Buren had once spent a night and where President William Henry Harrison and his bride had stopped on their wedding journey.

How far away those historic figures seemed, Eve reflected. How little people thought about them now. The thought somehow made her own feverish efforts toward a career seem rather futile. Away from Dixby's, away from Lake City, she saw her life in truer perspective. Perhaps—but she had decided not to think about work for the next two weeks. She would rest and relax in the peace and security of her old home.

Kate Bayless always had managed to remove all obstacles from her daughters' path when they were children. Eve counted on her help now in the growing complications of her life.

Mrs. Bayless was gradually winning back her usual good health. When she saw Eve she exclaimed, "Why, you're thinner child! You're working too hard!"

"Perhaps I am—a little," Eve assented. "The weather has been dreadful this summer. It takes away my appetite. But right now I'm simply famished. What are we going to have for supper? No, don't tell me—let me guess! Chicken and noodles and mashed potatoes. I'll wager my new Paris bonnet!"

"How did you know?" laughed Esther in mock surprise. Esther, Eve rather grudgingly admitted to herself, looked far happier and more attractive than she had ever seen her before.

"Oh, the lamb!" Eve held out her arms for Esther's baby who surveyed her aunt gravely and appraisingly but refused to leave the strength to get about as I used to," She looked closely at her soup bowl. "Just want to see if she put rice in it," she said, "instead of noodles. Your mother and your grandmother." "Pears to me you look a mito peaked. Still got Aunt Lenn have an idea that rice is better for me than noodles. But that fool notion in your head that you want to go to work every day, I tell 'em I been eating what I like for well on to 80 years and I guess I'll keep on. I see it's good! You can't eat your cake and have it."

Her grandmother's helplessness disarmed Eve. She made no effort to defend herself, but changed the subject by bringing forward the basket Kate had sent to her mother-in-law. Grandmother Bayless exclaimed, with pleasure over the coffee cake and dish of custard, then asked for a spoon and stirred the savory mixture in the Ladies now realise that prices at a big shop are not necessarily high. As a matter of fact, our prices are definitely the lowest in the Colony, or in the Far East for that matter. Of course, we are holding the most unusual sale this week, and the opportunity should not be missed. We defy you to find prices as amazingly moderate.

In a number of cases, prices are below the actual cost of manufacture, and everyone knows that this is not normally possible. It is not only possible but a fact at the moment. We have already sold tremendously, but there are still heavy stocks which will disappear very quickly. Make a special point of calling. You will find that your money purchases more than you ever dreamed. It could be—

WORLD CRISIS

A WAY OUT

By FREDERICK COPE, A.M.I.E.E.

Mr. Cope's striking articles on the world economic crisis which were recently published in the Hongkong Telegraph are now available in pamphlet form. One of the features, repayable study, is the close similarity between the plan of reform suggested by this local writer, and certain aspects of the Roosevelt recovery programme. The author's ideas are naturally far too advanced for active promotion at the present time, but they are particularly interesting in view of the fact that President Roosevelt, in striking out on a path of his own, has travelled in the same direction.

The pamphlet is one of forty-four pages and can be obtained from the South China Morning Post at a cost of—

At the moment, he says, China is unable to take her part in world trade. While he does not advocate bi-metallism, he declares that silver is usable in many ways. "In addition to gold," he writes, "we can accept silver for exports and simultaneously purchase silver to supplement our gold supplies. Thus we will help China, India and ourselves."

"Nanking," he continues, "is financially paralysed. Unless the Government there is supported, brigandage and communism will increase until Japan, posing as the protector of the Yellow Race, becomes the dominant power in China and excludes western nations from political influence and trade."

DEATHS.

MORLEY—On September 27, 1933, at Winklespruit, South Africa, Walter Morley.

DEATH At Edinburgh on September 27th George Grant Duncan, Father of Mrs. H. Green.

The Hongkong Telegraph.

THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 28, 1933.

THE AUDIT
REVELATIONS

The Audit Department has said almost as much as there is to say concerning the irregularities discovered in the government's system of accountancy. Starting as are the revelations in their way, there is nothing in general to suggest anything in the nature of jiggery-pokery. The charge is one of lackadaisical financial management by the different departments, which might be regarded as a grave matter in a business office, but which, unless a jolt of this kind comes along, is considered hardly separable from red tape and the routine of the file-passing system. It is safe to assume that nothing happened in December, 1932, and January, 1933, which did not also happen in the previous August and September, or any other time. The departments were "caught out" because December was the end of the year and accounts were supposed to be closed and, in point of fact, were not. The charitable view does not, however, mean that the matter can thus lightly be dismissed as of no great importance. The Central Police Station embezzlement episode is sufficient indication that a tightening up is necessary. "As far as can be established," and the phraseology thus employed by the Acting Auditor, Mr. Dallin, is interesting in itself, the shroff who absconded with police funds made away with $8,252. We gather that if the correct procedure had been followed, the loss would have been less by at least $8,517.87. The Accounts Office of the Police Department apparently received $8,000 in deposits during 1932 which was not paid into the Treasury, while the $517.87 should have been disbursed in December and was not, although it was shown as spent in the Treasury accounts. The incident adds considerable force to the pressure exerted by the Audit Department to secure a proper rendering at the proper time, although it is not at all necessary to their case. It must be obvious that if any slackness is permitted in departments in the matter of payments, either in or out, giving opportunity for the accumulation of largish sums, the liability to loss as the result of sudden temptation must be greater. The 1931 Au-

NOTES OF THE DAYPOLICE DISTRICTS

The police system of dividing the Colony into station districts for patrol and other purposes is probably unavoidable; a line has to be drawn somewhere. But it certainly has the effect of producing comic opera situations on occasion, particularly in Kowloon where it seems sometimes that the extreme in curiosity of division has been reached. In the vicinity of the Football and Bowring Green Clubs, for instance, three districts are involved. The harbour side of Chatham Road is the concern of Hung Hom; the other of Tsimshatsui. One side of Austin Road is in the Yau Ma Tei District and the other in Tsimshatsui. Prince Edward Road is in a somewhat similar position, one side being the responsibility of Kowloon City and the other of Mong Kok.

MASTERLY UNCONCERN

The weakness of the system only appears when, as often happens, a policeman attached to one station watches with masterly unconcern minor offences on the other side of the road, such as riding bicycles on the footpath practised with impunity by comrade boys in the morning and all sorts in the early evening. This dangerous habit is a particular nuisance in Prince Edward Road, where ready facilities for mounting the footpath are to be found in the provision made at every gateway for motor-car owners, and it is nearly time that a trap was set. Residents have, in some cases, taken direct action in the interests of children liable to be knocked down, but nothing that individuals can do is likely to be so salutary as a fine. But policemen always seem to be on the wrong side of the road. It can only be hoped that they would take their courage in both hands and break the bonds of "district" ritual in a matter more serious.

ENGINEERS FOR PEACE

When it comes to beating swords into plowshares—one of the most necessary tasks before the world to-day—a good lesson of how that objective can be furthered is furnished by the work of chemical engineers since the war. Reviewing events of the last twenty-five years at Chicago recently, members of the American Institute of Chemical Engineers, a profession which has come of age since the World War, told how they had contributed to social and industrial progress by applying to inventive research the experience gained during the war. This profession was called to arms to furnish the expeditionary forces with TNT, mustard gas, gunpowder and many kinds of poisonous weapons of war, as well as to increase the native production of nitrates and potash. The war over, chemical engineers entered a second phase of progress, capitalising, to a certain extent, their war-time experience, but this time devoting their attention to the development of new peace-time products.

LATENT ENERGIES

War-time concentration on the manufacture of TNT and poisonous gases rapidly changed, in peace time, to the production of such startling new products as fertiliser ingredients from the atmosphere, gasoline and oil from coal, artificial silk, leather and rubber, helium gas, and synthetic resins, bakelite, lacquers, to mention but a few of the more spectacular. Since the war, the chemical engineer has become a new factor in the world of natural science and industry. He has become the recognised connecting link between the laboratory and the plant, and one of his most important functions, as it has been phrased, "is that of converting the findings of the one into terms of commercial realisation of the other." If any lesson at all is to be learned from the development of the chemical engineering profession since the war, it should not be interpreted as meaning that the stimulus of a war was necessary to awaken these latent energies. Rather is it not one more reason for permanent world peace so that advancing knowledge may be applied only to good and never again to evil purposes?

dit Report pointed to one of the main sources of the trouble in urging a reduction of departmental bank accounts. Although the Treasury is ultimately responsible, only a quarter of payments out are actually made by the Treasury, a circumstance which, on the face of it, hardly seems satisfactory. Two years ago, the Colonial Treasurer could not recommend a remedy. The fresh strictures of the Auditors would seem to suggest that the issue needs to be gone into once again, a little more thoroughly.

WHAT DO WE KNOW ABOUT LOSS OF MEMORY?

By A MENTAL SPECIALIST

IT is a curious thing and inexplicable to the layman how anyone apparently normal and rational one day can be found the next in a state where all memory, all recollection of past events—even recollection of one's own personal identity—seem to be wiped out as if by some mystic force.

Such a condition is becoming of frequent occurrence. Scarce a week passes but a case is brought to our notice.

This state of loss of memory is medically termed amnesia. Of all the examples of amnesia, the most classical and typical were the cases produced by the Great War. Thousands occurred—cases where, after the fierce bursting of shells, or a rain of bombs from the air, men were shocked and shivered and concussed and shaken to their very foundations. Afterwards they knew nothing—or space, or time, or anything that had happened before. For them, all that had gone before had been wiped out—pitifully and pathetically.

STRAIN A CAUSE.

What happened in these cases happens much the same in the cases in everyday life where there is amnesia, though the causes may not be the same. Many war "nerves" cases were similar to civil cases. Strain had more to do with many of them than shells. This is certain.

We have to remember that the mind is composed of a great many parts, and that these parts should work in unity and harmony; but where there are "conflicts" going on the mind, the mind may be divided up into separate portions, one warring with another, and it is this dividing—or splitting—up which has earned the term "dissociation of consciousness."

That this "dissociation" can occur in generally normal individuals is clearly proved by those who are the subjects of somnambulism or sleep-walking. A further and more profound state of dissociation is what is termed a fugue.

SPLITTING UP OF MIND.

An apparently normal individual who has become nervously exhausted—by worry, overwork, shock, or strain—may go through a fugue where he may know and realise nothing until he finds himself hundreds of miles from home. Such an individual has been known to realise nothing until he has found himself as far away as America, conscious suddenly of returning then, after a lapse of nearly a week.

It is quite impossible, without some kind of mental analysis, to know what is going on in any human mind. An individual may appear wonderfully normal in every way and may yet be enduring powerful mental conflicts. When these come, so to speak, to the end of their tether, "dissociation" may occur and may aid in the loss of memory.

It is not due to a lesion of the brain. It is a state more closely allied to hysteria than anything

"If you would ever get in toroed in my stamp collection you wouldn't want to go to dances and parties."

The Very Idea!

BANDITRY.

By Ed. Kelly, Compradore.

IT is not out of place for us to recall a few of our own adventures at Home and Abroad now that bandits are at last drawing good money and somebody in the Government has found a way of making money without waiting for pensions or superannuation.

MENTAL CONFLICTS.

In the war thousands of deaf and dumb and apparently paralysed men were cured completely. And the same cure can be brought about in those who are apparently well one day and the next are without memory or recollection, or knowledge of past events.

To sum up, then, these cases of loss of memory—one excludes cases of pure simulation—are due to mental conflicts or mental trauma, mostly repressed; this leads to dissociation or splitting of the mind where certain memories are lost to the main consciousness, though still existing. That they still exist is proved by the fact that the memories can be restored—wherever they may be—under appropriate treatment.

And the best form of treatment in restoring lost memories is hypnosis—sometimes of the light, sometimes of the deeper, state. This is one of the great things hypnosis can do. No one need fear the hypnotic state—a state that can be brought about only with the full consent and co-operation of the patient.

RELIGION IS A
"BEST SELLER"*By CECIL PALMER.

WHENEVER the pessimists get busy they excel themselves in preaching the heresy that age in which we live is fundamentally and hopelessly materialistic. They would have us believe that religion is a back number.

The latest available official figures of the various types of books published in Great Britain during the first quarter of the present year are intensely illuminating. The grand total of new books published in this short period is 3,567. But the real significance of this colossal output of reading matter is revealed when the figures are dissected and classified under no fewer than 50 headings, ranging from Anthropology to Wireless.

It will not surprise anybody that fiction heads the table with a total of 1,804. But I venture to claim that most people will be astonished to learn that religion and theology occupy second place with a total of 224 entirely new books and 27 new editions. In passing it is worth while recording that third, fourth, fifth, and sixth places in the classification are held respectively by educational books with an output of 216; biography and memoirs 151; politics, political economy, and questions of the day 137, and poetry and drama 127.

In the light of these statistics it is difficult to draw any other conclusion than that the reading public, so far from being almost exclusively made up of entertainment seekers, is richly leavened with

One day we had to complain about our soup and although the Chief Bandit himself apologised, it was evident that relations and the soup were becoming strained.

Then a letter came from the headache hoping that we were as it left her at present and stating that she had already put by a matter of $116 against the day when the price for our release came down. We were relieved that she had not found out that we were already to be had for a mere $50 and that we should probably be going as a gift unless the business buckled up.

It was the shock to our dignity we were worried about. We felt that we could not hold up our head in our own house if we were returned at the market price of $50. We felt quite shot solde.

Then came the day when the Chief came and told us in sad tones that unless we left them soon they would have to offer a reward to anyone who would take us off their hands.

Were we mortified? However, there was only one thing to do, and we began packing our bag right away. The Chief implored us to stay overnight, but we were firm. It's great to be British. One can make these decisions and become implacable.

It was a sad farewell. The whole gang lined up and fired a parting volley as we drove off. Fortunately, they were all poor shooters.

We sent a telegram to break the news and on the way back in the train did our best to look bright and cheerful. It was not easy, especially as we were met by a long line of envoys at the station. If only we could raise $1,000 we could return to the bandits.

NEW TRADE PACT

ARGENTINE TO CUT TARIFFS

BRITAIN GAINS CONCESSIONS

London, Sept. 27.

Britain's trade negotiations with the Argentine have concluded satisfactorily and a supplementary agreement has now been signed.

The original Convention, drawn up in London some months ago, recorded United Kingdom concessions in regard to Argentine beef and wheat which are her chief exports to Great Britain and Argentine concessions in the matter of exchange control.

The new supplementary agreement is concerned almost entirely with concessions made by the Argentine on tariffs.

Reductions of the present Argentine Customs Duties are arranged for affecting on many classes of goods which are of interest to United Kingdom trade with the Argentine. In some cases, exemption from duty is granted.

Goods imported into Argentina are in general subject to a duty at percentage rates ranging from five per cent. to fifty-seven per cent. assessed on Argentine official tariff valuations. In addition to the customs duty, imported goods of the kinds liable to customs duty, are subject to a surcharge of ten per cent. ad valorem also calculated on the official tariff valuations, the surcharge being approved as a temporary measure in October 1931.

REDUCTION OF SURTAX.

Under existing Argentine legislation, this surtax is to be gradually reduced, starting in November of this year and to be finally extinguished by 1934.

The new agreement contains proposals whereby the Argentine Government agrees not to raise the surcharge above ten per cent. during the three years' currency of the agreement.

Classes of goods on which concessions are made under the supplementary agreement include all classes of textiles, all classes of metals and machinery, motor vehicles and cycles, chemicals, paints, varnishes, pottery and cotton goods.—British Wireless.

MELBOURNE CRIME

GANGSTER FASHION MURDER

Melbourne, Sept. 22.

A murder in American gangster fashion was committed in Gore Street, Fitzroy, to-day, just after midnight, when a labourer on his way home was deliberately shot and mortally wounded by a gunman who stepped from a motorcar and fired six shots from a pistol.

Detectives believe that the murderer is closely connected with a shooting affray which took place at North Carlton in the early part of this week, when a man was shot in the back while walking home.—Reuter.

FARMER CRITICS

U.S. RECOVERY PLAN ATTACKED

Washington, Sept. 27.

Although President Roosevelt has not yet announced any decision on the questions of deflation or devaluation of the U.S. dollar, it is realised at the White House and in the State Department that a stable monetary policy is imperative for the success of the recovery programme.

Remonetisation of silver and retirement of bonds by the issue of Treasury notes is urged by John A. Simpson, President of the Farmers' Union, who, in a letter to President Roosevelt, blames the bankers for the Farm Act and Recovery Act and finds fault with both measures.

Mr. Simpson added that it was the bankers' plan to destroy the Roosevelt administration.

"The people," he said, are overwhelmingly disappointed and disgusted with the recovery programme. They still have confidence in you; but no faith whatever in the recovery programme.—Reuter.

There was a clean bill of health in the Colony on Tuesday.

UNIVERSITY LOSES TO D.B.S.

GOOD BOWLING

The University were at home to the Diocesan Boys' School yesterday in a friendly cricket match and were heavily beaten by 8 wickets.

The Undergraduates had first loss of the wicket and could do nothing right to the steady bowling of Sergeant, who took four wickets for 13 runs, which included the first "hat trick" of the season. They were all dismissed for 40 runs, Hunt being top scorer with 23. B. D. Lay took two wickets for 0 runs.

Needling 47 runs for victory, the D.B.S. passed their total with 8 wickets in hand, Hulse being top scorer with 25, while G. Lee scored 10 not out.

THIRD VICTORY FOR ROZA-PEREIRA

440 YDS.
TITLE

HALF HEARTED
CHALLENGE

BY LAWRENCE

LATEST V.R.C.
RESULTS

Improving on his last year's figures, but still sixteen seconds behind Jimmy Johnstone's record of 1929, Lionel Roza-Pereira yesterday won the 440 yards free style open championship at the V.R.C., in 59 4/5 seconds and A. G. Donn won the H.K.I.A.S.A. open championship for the same event in 61 4/5 seconds.

Yesterday Roza-Pereira won the 440 yards open championship at the V.R.C., in 5 mins. 48 2/5 seconds, and Campbell, setting up a Y.M.C.A. bath record, did the same distance in six mins. 3 3/5 secs. in the H.K.I.A.S.A. open championship for 1933.

Pereira was never seriously challenged, not even by his inveterate opponent, Wilfrid Lawrence, and in returning the time of 5 minutes 48 2/5 seconds, was able to take the course fairly easily, no other competitor being able to make the pace. CAMPBELL NON-STARTER.

W. Campbell, the H.K.I.A.S.A. champion was a non-starter, scratching at the last minute, and Gnr. Gardner of the Artillery sent along a deputy in Gnr. Ellington.

As a result the race determined itself into a contest between three swimmers, with E. B. Roza, showing good stamina, finishing a close third to Lawrence.

G. J. Smith gained his second success of the championships by winning the 50 yards free style for "B" Class aggregate, and later he had the distinction of representing the winning V.R.C., in the open team race.

Results and the fourth and final programme for to-day follow:

50 Yards Handicap, Boys under 12 (heat):—1, R. Marques; 2, L. Remedios and A. Ozorio tied. Time: 28 4/5 secs.

440 Yards Free Style Championship:—1, L. Roza Pereira; 2, W. M. Lawrence; 3, E. B. Roza. Time: 5 mins. 48 2/5 secs.

"B" Class Aggregate 50 Yards Free Style (Heat):—1, G. J. Smith; 2, A. McGrann and A. A. Roza tied. Time: 28 4/5 secs.

25 Yards Under Water for Members (Heat):—1, J. D. Remedios; 2, L. A. J. Silva.

Open Team Race Six Men over 50 Yards:—1, V.R.C.; 2, Club de Recreio;

3, Chinese Athletic Association. Time: 2 mins. 42 3/5 secs.

The teams in the last event were:—V.R.C., E. B. Roza, G. T. Paget, S. V. Gittins, L. Roza Pereira, J. Smith, W. M. Lawrence.

C. do R., J. A. Gutierrez, E. L. Gosano, A. McGrann, B. Gosano, H. M. Remedios, A. A. Roza, C.A.A., Ng Wa-chau, Lau Po-ti, Yung Man-kat, Lo Chi-hing, Shiu Kuk-yau, Mi Chiu-cheung.

COMPARISONS.

It is not without interest to note that W. Lawrence won the 100 yards free style open championship at the V.R.C., in 59 4/5 seconds and A. G. Donn won the H.K.I.A.S.A. open championship for the same event in 61 4/5 seconds.

CINEMA SCREENINGS

NOTES SUPPLIED BY THE THEATRES

Sarah Bernhardt, the most famous of French actresses, was the inspiration for the stage and screen career of Genevieve Tobin, dainty little Fox Film star.

As a child in Paris, where she attended school, Miss Tobin, was taken by her mother to see the Divine Sarah in "L'Aiglon", one of her most famous roles. The little girl was so inspired with the power of that memorable actress, she immediately decided to go on the stage when she grew up.

When she returned to New York, she insisted so strenuously on a stage career that her mother took her to see David Belasco, who placed her under his management.

Still a child she played her first role in Wilton Lackaye's production of "Palmy Days," and later, at the ripe age of 10, played her first featured part in "Polly Preferred."

After that she had leading roles in "The Youngest", "This Woman Business", "The Play's the Thing" and "Murray Hill", in which she was co-starred with Leslie Howard who wrote the play.

She made her first trip to the Pacific Coast to play the leading role in "Polly Preferred," later returning to Broadway to be co-starred with Oscar Shaw and Walter Catlett in "Dear Sir" a musical comedy.

During the season of 1928-29, she was featured in "The Trial of Mary Dugan" in its run at the Queen's Theatre in London, scoring a tremendous hit.

Returning to America, she played the featured part of "Lulu Carroll" in "Fifty Million Frenchmen" on Broadway for 32 weeks, her good work winning her first screen contract, one with Universal.

She played in "A Lady Surveilled", "Free Love", "Seed", "Up for Murder", "Oh Promise Me", "A Lady Endures", and "The Guy Diplomat".

Then she made a great hit as the "vamp" in "One Hour With You" with Maurice Chevalier and Jeanette MacDonald, after which she went to England for an important part in Gloria Swanson's "A Perfect Under-standing".

She returned to New York and flew from there to Hollywood to sign a Fox Contract. Her first picture under this banner, the "Informal Machine", adapted from the novel by Carl Sloboda is doing a remarkable business these days at the King's Theatre. Chester Morris is co-starred with her. Marcel Varnel is the director and Victor Jory, a newcomer to the screen is also featured.

Up To Date

Walter Huston claims he did almost as much work in the privacy of his own home as he did on the talkie sets in preparation for his role of the President in "Gabriel Over the White House," during story of present-day Washington activities now being shown at the Queen's Theatre.

"I not only had to familiarize myself with the working script and memorize the dialogue," related the well-known character actor in a recent interview, "but it was also necessary for me to read more than 1,600 pages of Congressional speeches and editorial comment as well as a formidable number of biographies of Cleveland, Roosevelt, Harding, Coolidge, and Hoover in order to discover what fundamental qualities an able President must have."

When Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer purchased the sensational anonymous novel, "Gabriel Over the White House," for film purposes it was inevitable that Huston would be selected to play the role of the President who amazes the world when he changes from a weak irresolute politician to a man of iron who wrests the powers of a dictator from Congress, solves the unemployment problem, breaks the power of the racketeers and settles the international debt problem.

For Huston had long since proved himself adept at portraying Presidents, having enacted both Abraham Lincoln and Ulysses S. Grant. As a preparation for the Lincoln role he read forty lives of that President. He played Grant in a two-reel short subject, but for that comparatively shorter experience six weeks of reading were required.

Huston is one of the most experienced players on the screen. A native of Toronto, he was educated as an engineer but gave up this profession to become an actor. He rose steadily through stock companies to his position as a Broadway stage star, which he gave up to come to talkies in 1929 with "Gentlemen of the Press." He has recently scored in a number of hits, including "Kongo," "Night Court" and "Beast of the City."

"The Kid From Spain" promised by Samuel Goldwyn as the biggest, as well as the funniest picture to come out of Hollywood this season, "The Kid from Spain" comes to the King's Theatre on Friday.

It is the annual screen song-and-dance comedy of Eddie Cantor, succeeding his "Palmy Days" of last season and "Whoopie" of the year before. Eddie makes but one picture a year, saving his energy, his voice and his laughs for a single big effort.

"The Kid from Spain" is the story of a button-eyed lad, who, getting kicked out of school with his roommate for suspicious goings-on in a girls' dormitory, gets involved in a bank-robbery and escapes to Mexico disguised as Don Sebastian II, the famous bull-fighter. He accepts the acclaim of a great fete in his honour, trying desperately to maintain his masquerade until the minute he is forced into the arena to fight the four bulls in the thrilling climax of the picture.

Goldwyn went to great pains to make the arena and its atmosphere authentic. Bulls were brought from Mexico and a hundred experts of one kind or another put it into operation.

Sidney Franklin, the world's greatest bull-fighter, appears in the picture.

Eddie Cantor's songs get their strain from the effervescent, bounding comedienne, Lydia Roberti, who second his comedy through the story.

Others in the cast are Robert Young and Ruth Hall, John Miljan, Carroll

Nash and Stanley Fields.

under his own name at the head of the procession of matadors, and later in an exhibition of his sport.

For the beauty and colour of the arena and for the gala fiesta that precedes it, Goldwyn marshalled together seventy-six of the proudest beauties of the world. Song, dance, music as well as laughter bring them into the picture and take them out.

CONTRACT BRIDGE

By W. E. McKenney

Altogether too many hands are lost due to nothing but carelessness. How often, when a hand goes down, have you not seen the declarer size it up and say, "Well, if I get a break, or if one of these finesse work for me, my contract is in!"

But when you are playing in tournament you should figure on the worst possible breaks. For example, in the following hand, the declarer should say to himself "Supposing the spades do not break and the diamond and spade finesse are both wrong. Can I still make my contract?"

The Bidding

South passed and West bid one spade. With this five and one half trick hand, we do not recommend anything more than an original bid of one.

Original forcing two bids in the constructive one over one system of bidding must be made only with a hand containing no more than three losing cards—in other words, you must be able to make game if your partner's hand contains nothing but deuces. With less than that, open with a one bid and your partner will give you a chance by a bid of at least one no trump if he has anything at all.

Therefore, when West opens with one spade, North will pass and East should bid two spades—his hand is not strong enough for a jump to three spades. West should now make a slam try bid of four spades. Notice that a jump to game, with this system, is not a sign-off—it is a definite slam

No claims will be admitted after the goods have left the Godowns and all goods remaining undelivered after the 4th October, 1933, 4 p.m., will be subject to rent.

All broken, chafed, and damaged goods are to be left in the Godowns where they will be examined by Messrs. Anderson & Ashe on the 3rd October, 1933, at 10 a.m.

All claims against the vessel must be presented to the Undersigned within ten days of the ship's arrival, or they will not be recognised.

No Fire Insurance will be effected. Bills of Lading will be counter-signed by JOHN MANNERS & CO. LTD., Agents, Mercantile Bank Building, Hongkong, 27th September, 1933.

try. East can now bid five spades and West will take the contract to six.

The Play

The opening lead is the queen of clubs by North, which is won by the declarer with the king. Two rounds of spades are taken and this establishes North's queen.

Many declarers would now try for the diamond finesse, and if it fails, would complain that they had bad break on the hand. However, there is a safer way to play the hand and that is to lead a club, win in the dummy with the ace and cash the king of hearts.

Declarer should then lead a small diamond from dummy, win with the ace, lead the ace of hearts, discarding a club from dummy, and then ruff the other heart.

The declarer now leads a spade from dummy and throws North in the lead—and North is helpless. If a club is led, declarer will ruff in dummy and discard his losing diamond, while the diamond lead gives him two diamond tricks.

LIQUOR IN A SHOP.

MANAGER FINED $200 BY MR. SCHOFIELD

The case is a sequel to a raid conducted by Detective Sergeant Fletches on the premises on the night of September 1, when four Indians were found in a back cubicle partaking of beer. The defendant, in evidence yesterday, said that the Indians had come into the shop, and then one of them had gone out and brought the beer, and despite his protests they had started drinking inside his shop. He never stocked this particular brand of beer himself. He did not know from where the Indians had obtained this "Lion Brand" beer.

The accused was defended by Mr. Horace Lo.

TRAGIC DEATH

MR. B. M. MACFARLANE DIES AT SWATOW

Under distressing circumstances, the death occurred at Swatow on Tuesday of Mr. Malcolm M. Macfarlane, for many years connected with Messrs. Butterfield and Swire in Hongkong as Accountant.

Tragedy arises from the fact that Mr. Macfarlane was returning from his annual holidays when his death took place. He left Hongkong early this month by the China Navigation steamer Hunan to make the round trip to Tientsin, and arrived in Swatow on the return trip yesterday morning.

Although details are meagre it is understood that Mr. Macfarlane went ashore at Swatow yesterday morning, and returned to the ship for tea. Shortly after this he had a heart seizure, and within a few minutes was dead.

The late Mr. Macfarlane was 45 years of age and prior to joining the staff of Messrs. Butterfield and Swire twelve years ago, was connected with the Church of Scotland Missionary Society, being stationed on the Upper Yangtze. He spent many years in inland China before coming to Hongkong.

Mr. Macfarlane he is survived by a widow and three children who are in residence in Hongkong. He was extremely popular. He took a keen interest in golf, and was an enthusiastic hiker. He was a prominent Mason.

The Funeral.

There was a large attendance of residents at the funeral which took place last evening at the Protestant Cemetery. The service at the graveside was performed by the Rev. E. G. Powell, Minister of the Hongkong Union Church.

Amongst those present were Mr. T. H. R. Shaw, manager of Butterfield and Swire; Dr. A. J. Skinn and Messrs. J. W. Tate, A. E. Humes, A. Austin, A. Dransfield, R. Kingham, N. Drummond, J. H. Seth, T. Carton, J. Logan, D. Toljan, J. Kotwall, D. C. Clark, F. Clemo, J. H. Little, B. Randall, J. F. Lawrie, J. D. Kinnard, H. Hong Sling, and others.

Wreaths were sent from the following—Bennie and Ada, Nan, Nell and Allan, Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Bone, Mr. Chan Kim-cho, Mr. Louis S. Chan, Mr. F. A. M. Elliott, Mr. J. C. Ferguson, Mr. and Mrs. A. E. It is understood that if the Canton Municipal Chamber of Commerce, which originally advocated the new tax, shows willingness to co-operate with the local Chamber, another letter from Hongkong rice associations under the leadership of the Chinese Chamber of Commerce will be submitted to the Chairman of the Kwangtung Provincial Government requesting a postponement of the tax, which is detrimental to the food supply of Kwangtung and imposes an additional burden on the consumer.

The Chairman of the Rice Merchants' Association, Mr. P. C. Cheng, explained to yesterday's meeting that all statistical information pointed to Kwangtung's inadequate rice supply even in normal times, and as this southern province depended so much on foreign import Kwangtung's thousands of consumers would eventually become the chief sufferers from the additional tax.

CANTON RICE TAX

CHINESE CHAMBER OF COMMERCE PROTEST

The enormous loss which may be caused to Hongkong rice exporting firms in Nam Pak Hong by Canton's new duty on foreign rice was emphasised at the discussion at the monthly meeting of the Chinese Chamber of Commerce yesterday afternoon.

Mr. Wong Kwong-tin was Chairman and he was supported by the Secretary, Mr. Chan Ping-an.

The meeting, after some discussion, resolved to write to the Canton Municipal Chamber of Commerce setting forth objections to the new rice tax.

It is understood that if the Canton Municipal Chamber of Commerce, which originally advocated the new tax, shows willingness to co-operate with the local Chamber, another letter from Hongkong rice associations under the leadership of the Chinese Chamber of Commerce will be submitted to the Chairman of the Kwangtung Provincial Government requesting a postponement of the tax, which is detrimental to the food supply of Kwangtung and imposes an additional burden on the consumer.

EUROPE MAKING HISTORY

QUICKLY MOVING EVENTS

DISARMAMENT DUELS

DANUBIAN STATE FEDERATION

Events likely to shape the destiny of Central Europe have been moving uncommonly quickly in the last few days.

The disarmament problem up to the present has defied all attempts at a solution, although it is understood that it is being tackled on well-defined lines.

Britain is endeavouring to persuade France to make concessions regarding the granting of "token" equality to Germany. Italy, on her side, is making similar effort to persuade Germany to agree to a probationary period, on which issue France is adamant.

VIENNA EVENTS

Meanwhile, Rauter's Vienna correspondent says that Dr. Dollfuss's "Akin to Fascism" regime has been strengthened by the wholehearted accession of Prince von Starhemberg's Heimwehr.

The only threat to stability in Austria seems to come from the Socialists. In this matter, the Dollfuss Government is confident of its ability to meet any eventuality that may arise.

DANUBIAN FEDERATION

At Sinaia, where the Little Entente Powers are in conference, the leaders have forged important links in the federation of the Danubian States by agreement to co-ordinate commercial policy and communications.

At the conclusion of the conference, Dr. Benes, the Czechoslovakian leader, plans to visit Rome, Budapest and Vienna. M. Titulescu, the Rumanian leader, will visit Sofia and Athens with the object of spreading the gospel of closer co-operation. The importance of the Sinaia meetings is emphasised by the attendance at the opening session of King Carol of Rumania and King Alexander of Yugoslavia.—Reuter.

London, Sept. 27.

Captain Euan Wallace, Civil Lord of the Admiralty, who is paying an official visit to British naval stations in the Far and Middle East, means to travel fast.

He is leaving London on Saturday next and he reckons to cover 20,000 miles in fifty-one days.

He will travel from England to Rangoon by Imperial Airways machine, taking advantage of the service newly established. From Rangoon he will travel by flying boat to Singapore, after which he will proceed to Hongkong by P. and O. liner.

Captain Wallace will be in Hongkong, it is hoped, in time to participate in the Trafalgar and Naval Day celebrations.

After his visit to Hongkong he will proceed to Colombo and Trincomalee by steamer, joining the flagship of the East Indies Squadron, H.M.S. Hawkins, at Trincomalee. He will proceed in her to Bombay and will then return home by Imperial Airways.—Reuter.

TOKYO MURDER PLOT

SIX LABOUR LEADERS ACCUSED: ASTOUNDING PLANS

Tokyo, Sept. 28.

Charged with attempted murder and incendiarism, six members of the Patriotic Labour Party who were arrested in connexion with a plot to murder members of the Cabinet, were formally indicted this morning.

The plotters, together with others, were aiming at the fundamental reconstruction of the State. They planned to attack the Premier's official residence on July 11th while the Cabinet was in session, and murder all present. They were to simultaneously attack and set fire to Count Makino's residence.

Further arrests are continuing in connexion with the financing of the plot, which is alleged to be of an even wider scope than last year's conspiracy of May 16th, when Premier Inukai was assassinated.—Reuter.

DEVELOPMENT SCHEME

This sale as Honourable Members are aware constitutes the first stage in a now development scheme embracing all the Government property lying between Queen's Road and Upper Albert Road on the North and South and Garden Road and Ice House Street on the East and West.

We must be prepared for the transfer of the credit to a special account and when that has been done and the Inchape estate duty deducted it will be seen that our ordinary revenue for 1933 cannot be set higher than about $30,000,000 as against an original estimate of $34,000,000 and that the maintenance of our surplus balances at the same level at the opening of the year is due to our revised estimate of expenditure for 1933 being $32,564,261 as against an original estimate of $35,199,247. The main factor in this saving is the reduced cost of our sterling commitments, including officers' salaries, arising from the difference between the current exchange rate and the rate ($1.18/2d) adopted in framing the estimates. This difference in exchange has also of course a depressing effect on certain items of revenue which have been placed on a sterling basis, but this is a very limited reduction in no way comparable to the reduction in expenditure arising from the same cause.

GENERAL DEPRESSION

The main factor in the falling off of our ordinary revenue lies of course in the general depression from which the world at large has been suffering for some years past and which is now hitting the Colony in earnest. The import duties on liquor and tobacco for the first half of 1933 have been only $1,883,876 as against an estimated figure for the same period of $2,950,000. Stamp duties are similarly $1,111,731 as against $1,300,000. Opium revenue for the half year stands at $643,030, instead of $1,250,000 but only a very small part of this fall is attributable to the decreased means of the addicts.

OPIUM LOSS

The bulk of the loss is attributable to the new arrangement instituted on the recommendation of the Bangkok Conference by which this Government's Monopoly draws its supplies of prepared opium from the factory of the Straits Settlements Monopoly. The Hongkong addict does not like the Singapore brand. The grounds of his dislike are somewhat obscure at any rate for the moment and are being further explored; what is clear is that he will not buy the opium that the Hongkong Government offers him. If this state of affairs indicated a genuine step towards the liberation of the addict from his addiction, it would not only be a subject for regret; it would be a matter for positive congratulation.

The Hongkong Government abides by its declaration that considerations of revenue shall not stand in the way of its co-operation in the obligations of His Majesty's Government.

RANKS SWELLED

Unfortunately there is abundant evidence that the disuse of the Hongkong brand has merely swelled the ranks of the smokers and the profits of the purveyors of illicit opium. Shortly after the new arrangement came into force the Superintendent of Imports and Exports instituted an intensive campaign against opium smugglers which are not only illegal

CORDON HOLDS

FIERCE ATTACK BY FANG

STREET FIGHTING IN KAOLIYING

JAPANESE BOMB GOVT. TROOPS

(Our Own Correspondent.)

(By Telegraph. Copyright Telegraphist Association, 1933. Received, September 28, 9.15 a.m.)

Peking, Sept. 28.

Graphic stories of fierce fighting in the streets of the walled town of Kaoliying disposed this morning of the belief that General Fang Cheng-wu's forces were retreating into Charhar unmolested.

Official reports show that Fang Chen-wu actually made a determined attempt to smash through the cordon of Government troops lining the Tangku Armistice Line, and that, although the desperate bid failed, with heavy loss of life, he has not yet abandoned the effort.

The main attack was centred on the town of Kaoliying, which is only eighteen miles to the north of Peking.

STREET FIGHTING.

Fang's forces were launched upon a sweeping assault and succeeded in getting a foothold in the city, where heavy fighting occurred in the streets.

The battle raged for twenty-four hours, according to official advices, after which the intruders finally beat a hasty retreat, leaving over a hundred dead and several hundred wounded.

During the height of the engagement, a squadron of Japanese bombing planes, swooping low, dropped bombs killing several Government soldiers.

AN ERROR?

It is supposed that the bombing of Government troops was in error.

Fang's forces are now moving westward along the armistice line, feeling their way and seeking out a possible weak link in the cordon thrown out by General Ho Ying-ching.

A number of tentative attacks have been made at different points, but all have been repulsed and it is not thought that they will find place to break through.

Further skirmishes have since been reported near Tangshan, the hot springs resort, within easy motoring distance of Peking.

REUTER REPORT.

Peking, Sept. 28. Chinese reports indicate that General Fang Chen-wu's forces are still moving north-west and have not again come up against Government troops.

General Chi Hung-chang, however, does not seem ready to move out. Several hundred of men came into contact with Government troops at Tangshan, 20 miles north of Peking, and were driven back into the demilitarized zone.—Reuter.

CHINA SIX YEAR PLAN

CHEN KUNG PO'S SCHEME

ECONOMIC DEVELOPMENT

Nanking, Sept. 28.

An ambitious plan for the development of the economic resources of China, embracing all details, has been drawn up by Mr. Chen Kung Po, Minister of Industry of the Nanking Government.

It is described as the Six Year Economic Plan and will be submitted to the National Economic Council for its adoption.

Though details of the plan have not been disclosed, it is believed that the improvement of communications and of rural agriculture are emphasised as requiring the first attention of the authorities who are in charge of the economic planning of the country.

The Ministry of Industry hopes that the National Economic Council which has full power to put into effect any economic plan, will adopt this six-year plan at least as basis for discussion by its expert committee.—Central News Agency.

IRISH DAIL MEETS

UNDER DISPLAY OF ARMED GUARDS

Dublin, Sept. 27.

The Irish Dail re-assembled in an armed citadel for the opening of the new session to-day.

There was an exceptional display of armed guards, not only at the entrance of the building, but in the precincts. Even the Press gallery was guarded by a policeman with a revolver.

The routine business was accomplished very speedily to clear a way for a motion of censure denouncing the Government's use of the Public Safety Act, which was described as unjust and oppressive.

This will provide the newly-formed United Irish Party with the first test of its strength.—Reuter.

"Amy, there's Margaret." "I'm not speaking to Margaret. I'm mad at her."

"Why, I saw you two with your arms around each other yesterday. What's wrong?"

"She went with Irene and she promised to come with me."

"That isn't any reason for not speaking. I often get provoked at people but I wouldn't stop speaking to them just on that account."

"I won't speak to people I'm mad at."

"If you would speak to Margaret, she would speak to you, wouldn't she?"

"She won't get the chance. Anyways none of the girls ever speak to other girls they are mad at."

No Sense of Shame.

"Oh, I see! And how long has this been going on? Do you mean that you girls have two kinds of friends, the ones you speak to and the ones you don't?"

"I don't understand you, mother."

"Margaret's still your friend, isn't she? I mean she will be in a week or so. You aren't going to stay mad at her until you are both old ladies."

"Yes, I am."

"Look here, my dear, you know better than that. You'll be speaking to her to-morrow. And I think you should be ashamed of yourself."

"Me! Why, mother, everyone does it. If you told the girls they ought to be ashamed of themselves for that they would think you were crazy."

"Oh, they would, would they? Well, I'm not concerned about the girls. I'm only concerned about you, Amy. You are not going to do it any more. I won't have it. You are enjoying being mad at Margaret, as you call it. You love to toss your head and snub her. I can see it. You were whispering to Agnes a while ago and I suppose you did it so Margaret would see you and be uncomfortable."

Madge Evans wears a charming black linen frock with capote sleeves. She tops it with a white jacket of wide eyelet linen.

Growing Into a Habit

Amy looked at her mother with new interest. This was exactly what had happened. All except one thing. She wasn't enjoying it, or at least she said so.

"Yes, you are, or you wouldn't do it, my dear. We don't do things we don't enjoy. We enjoy getting angry. Did you ever know that? People have quick tempers, for instance, because they like to be all excited and shout mean things."

"And all this 'mad' business of yours is something like that. You get a big kick out of it. So does Margaret, probably."

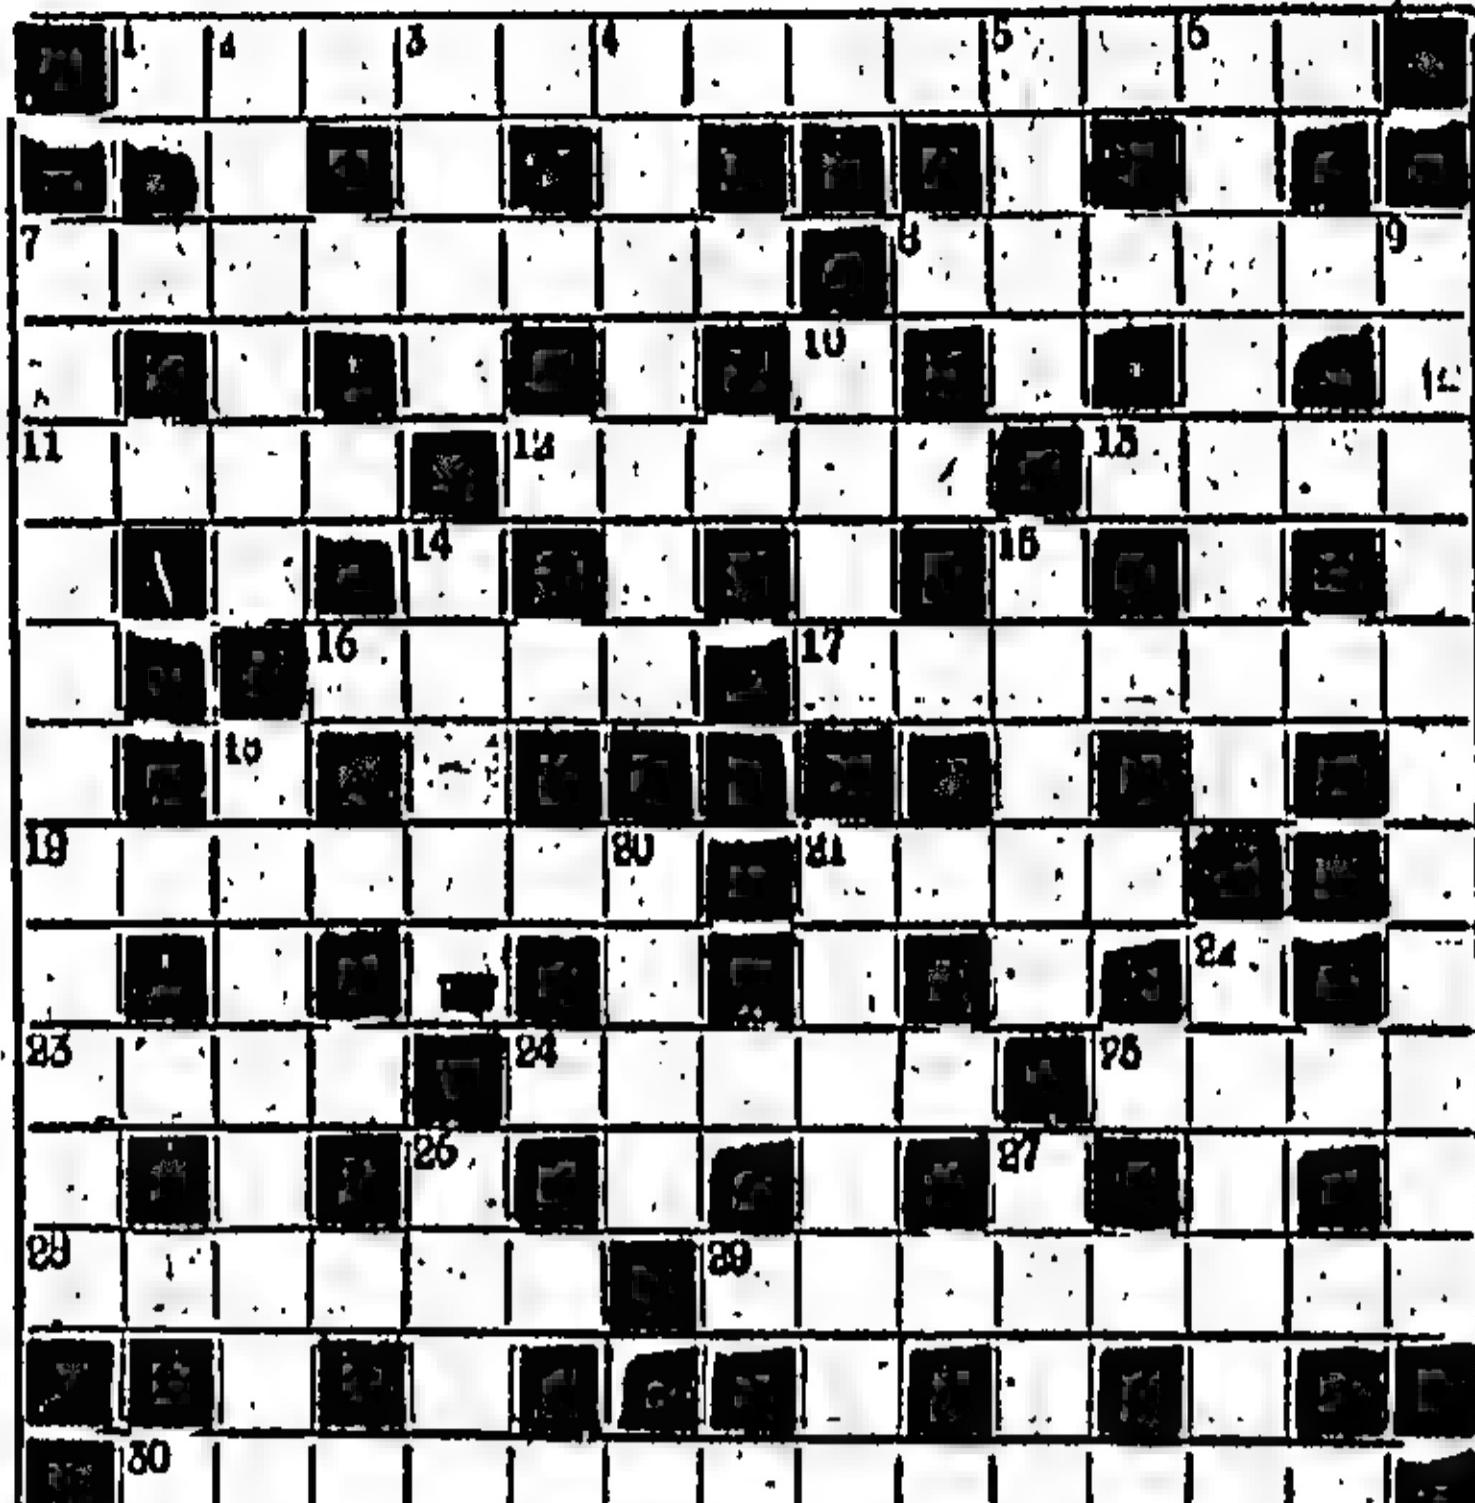

"But anyway, I won't have it. It has to stop. You go right over to her now and make up."

Amy went reluctantly and the two girls made up. But already Amy was wondering who else she could be 'mad at' next. It gets to be a habit. It should be stopped. This little girl's mother was wise, and she was right.

Being habitually "mad" at someone is a sort of orgy of hatefulness. It should have no place in any child's life.

FOR THE LOVE OF EVE BY LUCY WALLING

when her grandmother gave her a neat package at parting. "Open it when you get home," she said. "I made one for Esther and one for Lena's Ruth. Thought it wouldn't seem right not to make one for you, too."

Guided by some intuition, Eve opened the package when she was alone. In it was a crib quilt—an intricate, lovely pattern in pink and white, with blocks only an inch square and stitches "a fairy foot long." Her grandmother had made the quilt years ago. Eve was certain—before her old hands had lost their skill. Eve did not tell Dick or her mother of the gift and, oddly enough, neither of them questioned her about it.

When her vacation was at last

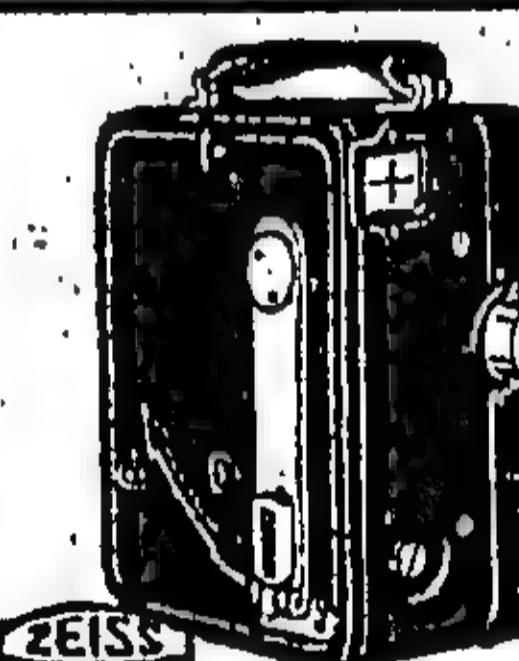

at an end and it was time to return to Lake City, Eve was both anxious and reluctant to go. What would the next few months do with her life, and career and with Dick's?

The afternoon following her return to the store Eve stood at her desk wearing an old smock over her trim black gown. Before her was a layout sheet and she was pasting into place sketches and captions. Arlene was busy transcribing shorthand notes, while Mrs. Penney worked at her drawing board. Mona was somewhere in the store.

To Eve's amazement a policeman entered and asked for "Miss Bayless."

For the LOVE of EVE by Lucy Walling

CHAPTER XXXIII

Arlene put one finger to her lips, cautioning quiet; as Eve told her about the disappearance of the diamond ring.

"But I must find it!" moaned Eve.

"It was Mona, of course," said Arlene. "I remember that I saw her coming into the office when I stepped out of the elevator. She was alone here for a full minute, and you know she always makes a bee-line for the mirror the minute she comes in! She's in Barnes' office now and he didn't send for her, either. Evidently she didn't want to be present when you discovered that the ring was gone. Listen! I'll disappear and when she comes out you can confront her. I'll stop at the desk outside where I can keep an eye on the office door. If she comes out I'll follow her and call the house detective if necessary. She's not going to get away with this!"

Mona emerged from Barnes' office a little later, picked up a supply of copy paper and set to work typing. But Eve and Arlene were not deceived by this show of industry. In a few minutes Mona rose leisurely and started for the door.

"Oh, Miss Allen!" Eve called as Arlene, apparently without abruptness, arose and left the office.

"Yes?" Mona paused reluctantly by Eve's desk.

"Don't you think your little joke has gone far enough?" Eve held out her hand. "I'll take my ring now if you don't mind."

Mona forced a sickly smile. "Wondered how long it would be before you missed it," she mumbled, dropping the ring into Eve's palm.

When the time for her two weeks' vacation arrived Eve found herself strangely reluctant to leave Lake City. She tried to convince Dick that she did not need to go away for a rest. "We can take a little drive into the country every day," she said. "I'll rest a lot and we can go out to dinner evenings. That way we won't spend much. If we went to a smart hotel I'd need a lot of new clothes."

"A hotel at some popular resort is not my idea of a vacation," Dick returned. "Seems silly to me to try to impress people we've never seen before and probably never will see again. You have plenty of clothes and we're going on a vacation trip. It will do you good to get away from the smoke of your own chimney."

They argued the question for several days. Eve's real reason for not wanting to leave Lake City was that she did not like to lose touch with the brokerage office. However Dick won out and Eve agreed to the trip.

"We'll go home," she decided. "Mother will be glad and I can help Esther take care of her. We won't have to spend a lot of money, either."

Bixby's closed at 1 o'clock on Saturdays during the summer. At 1:15 Eve, feeling happy and excited, stepped into the roadster beside Dick.

"We'll lunch at the first attractive place we find along the way," he announced. "Our vacation doesn't really begin until we've left Lake City behind."

The trip was to be made in leisurely fashion. Dick had mapped out a route they had not travelled before. They kept to pleasant by-roads, winding among hills and along streams. The first night they lodged at a historic tavern.

ern where, they were told, President Van Buren had once spent a father's shoulder. Hank, it was plain to see, was enormously pleased at the child's preference. Secretly the other members of the family were delighted and amused to see how Hank melted and became wax in the hands of small Katherine Ann.

How far away those historic figures seemed, Eve reflected. How little people thought about them now. The thought somehow made her own feverish efforts toward a career seem rather futile. Away from Bixby's, away from Lake City, she saw her life in truer perspective. Perhaps—but she had decided not to think about work for the next two weeks. She would rest and relax in the peace and security of her old home. Kate Bayless always had managed to remove all obstacles from her daughters' path when they were children. Eve counted on her help now in the growing complications of her life.

Mrs. Bayless was gradually winning back her usual good health. When she saw Eve she exclaimed, "Why, you're thinner, child! You're working too hard!" "Perhaps I am—a little," Eve assented. "The weather has been dreadful this summer. It takes away my appetite. But right now I'm simply famished. What are we going to have for supper? No, don't tell me—let me guess! Chicken and noodles and mashed potatoes, I'll wager my new Party bonnet!"

"How did you know?" laughed Esther in mock surprise. Esther, Eve rather grudgingly admitted to herself, looked far happier and more attractive than she had ever seen her before.

"Oh, the lamb!" Eve held out her arms for Esther's baby who surveyed her aunt gravely and appraisingly but refused to leave the strength to get about as I used to." She looked closely at her granddaughter. "Pears to me you look a mito peaked. Still got that fool notion in your head that you want to go to work every day, same as a man does? Mark my word, young lady, it'll come to no good! You can't eat your cake and have it."

Her grandmother's helplessness disarmed Eve. She made no effort to defend herself, but changed the subject by bringing forward the basket Kate had sent to her mother-in-law. Grandmother Bayless exclaimed with pleasure over the coffee cake and dish of custard, then asked for a spoon and stirred the savory mixture in the soup bowl. "Just want to see if she put rice in it," she said, "instead o' noodles. Your mother and your Aunt Lena have an idea that rice is better for me than noodles. But I tell 'em I been eating what I like for well on to 80 years and I guess I'll keep on. I see it's good! You can't eat your cake and have it."

Eve, who would have resented this at one time, felt only compassion now. She was touched anew.

THE AUDIT REVELATIONS

The Audit Department has said almost as much as there is to say concerning the irregularities discovered in the government's system of accountancy. Starting as are the revelations in their way, there is nothing in general to suggest anything in the nature of jiggery-pokery. The charge is one of lackadaisical financial management by the different departments, which might be regarded as a grave matter in a business-office, but which, unless a jolt of this kind comes along, is considered hardly separable from red tape and the routine of the file-passing system. It is safe to assume that nothing happened in December, 1932, and January, 1933, which did not also happen in the previous August and September, or any other time. The departments were "caught out" because December was the end of the year and accounts were supposed to be closed and, in point of fact, were not. The charitable view does not, however, mean that the matter can thus lightly be dismissed as of no great importance. The Central Police Station embezzlement episode is sufficient indication that a tightening up is necessary. "As far as can be established," and the phraseology thus employed by the Acting Auditor, Mr. Dallin, is interesting in itself, the shroff who absconded with police funds made away with $8,252. We gather that if the correct procedure had been followed, the loss would have been less by at least $3,617.87. The Accounts Office of the Police Department apparently received $3,000 in deposits during 1932 which was not paid into the Treasury, while the $3,617.87 should have been disbursed in December and was not, although it was shown as spent in the Treasury accounts. The incident adds considerable force to the pressure exerted by the Audit Department to secure a proper rendering at the proper time, although it is not at all necessary to their case. It must be obvious that if any slackness is permitted in departments in the matter of payments, either in or out, giving opportunity for the accumulation of largish sums, the liability to loss at the result of sudden temptation must be greater. The 1931 Au-

NOTES OF THE DAY

POLICE DISTRICTS

The police system of dividing the Colony into station districts for patrol and other purposes is probably unavoidable; a line has to be drawn somewhere. But it certainly has the effect of producing comic opera situations on occasion, particularly in Kowloon, where it seems sometimes that the extreme in curiosity of division has been reached. In the vicinity of the Football and Bowling Green Clubs, for instance, three districts are involved. The harbour side of Chatham Road is the corner of Hung Hom; the other of Tsimtsui. One side of Austin Road is in the Yaumati District and the other in Tsimtsui. Prince Edward Road is in a somewhat similar position, one side being the responsibility of Kowloon City and the other of Mongkok.

MASTERLY UNCONCERN

The weakness of the system only appears when, as often happens, a policeman attached to one station watches with masterly unconcern minor offences on the other side of the road, such as riding bicycles on the footpath, practised with impunity by compradore boys in the morning and all sorts in the early evening. This dangerous habit is a particular nuisance in Prince Edward Road, where ready facilities for mounting the footpath are to be found in the provision made at every gateway for motor-car owners, and it is nearly time that a trap was set. Residents have, in some cases, taken direct action in the interests of children liable to be knocked down, but nothing that individuals can do is likely to be so salutary as a fine. But policemen always seem to be on the wrong side of the road. It can only be hoped that they would take their courage in both hands and break the bonds of "district" ritual in a matter more serious.

ENGINEERS FOR PEACE

When it comes to beating swords into plowshares—one of the most necessary tasks before the world to-day—a good lesson of how that objective can be furthered is furnished by the work of chemical engineers since the war. Reviewing events of the last twenty-five years at Chicago recently, members of the American Institute of Chemical Engineers, a profession which has come of age since the World War, told how they had contributed to social and industrial progress by applying to inventive research the experience gained during the war. This profession was called to arms to furnish the expeditionary forces with TNT, mustard gas, gunpowder and many kinds of poisonous weapons of war, as well as to increase the native production of nitrates and potash. The war over, chemical engineers entered a second phase of progress, capitalising to a certain extent, their war-time experience, but this time devoting their attention to the development of new peace-time products.

LATENT ENERGIES

War-time concentration on the manufacture of TNT and poisonous gases rapidly changed, in peace time, to the production of new startling new products as fertiliser ingredients from the atmosphere, gasoline and oil from coal, artificial silk, leather and rubber, helium gas, and synthetic resins, bakelite, lacquers, to mention but a few of the more spectacular. Since the war, the chemical engineer has become a new factor in the world of natural science and industry. He has become the recognised connecting link between the laboratory and the plant, and one of his most important functions, as it has been phrased, "is that of converting the findings of the one into terms of commercial realisation of the other." If any lesson at all is to be learned from the development of the chemical engineering profession since the war, it should not be interpreted as meaning that the stimulus of a war was necessary to awaken these latent energies. Rather is it not one more reason for permanent world peace so that advancing knowledge may be applied only to good and never again to evil purposes?

dit Report pointed to one of the main sources of the trouble in urging a reduction of departmental bank accounts. Although the Treasury is ultimately responsible, only a quarter of payments out are actually made by the Treasury, a circumstance which, on the face of it, hardly seems satisfactory. Two years ago, the Colonial Treasurer could not recommend a remedy. The fresh strictures of the Auditors would seem to suggest that the issue needs to be gone into once again, a little more thoroughly.

WHAT DO WE KNOW ABOUT LOSS OF MEMORY?

By A MENTAL SPECIALIST

IT is a curious thing and inexplicable to the layman how anyone apparently normal and rational one day can be found the next in a state where all memory, all recollection of past events—even recollection of one's own personal identity—seem to be wiped out as if by some mystic force.

Such a condition is becoming of frequent occurrence. Scarce a week passes but a case is brought to our notice.

This state of loss of memory is medically termed amnesia. Of all the examples of amnesia, the most classical and typical were the cases produced by the Great War. Thousands occurred—cases where, after the fierce bursting of shells, or a rain of bombs from the air, men were shocked and shivered and concussed and shaken to their very foundations. Afterwards they knew nothing—of space, or time, or anything that had happened before. For them, all that had gone before had been wiped out pitilessly and pathetically.

STRAIN A CAUSE.

What happened in these cases happens much the same in the cases in everyday life where there is amnesia, though the causes may not be the same. Many war "nerves" cases were similar to civil cases. Strain had more to do with many of them than shells. This is certain.

We have to remember that the mind is composed of a great many parts, and that these parts should work in unity and harmony; but where there are "conflicts" going on in the mind, the mind may be divided up into separate portions, one warring with another, and it is this dividing—or splitting—up which has earned the term "dissociation of consciousness."

That this "dissociation" can occur in generally normal individuals is clearly proved by those who are the subjects of somnambulism or sleep-walking. A further and more profound state of dissociation is what is termed a fugue.

SPLITTING UP OF MIND.

An apparently normal individual who has become nervously exhausted—by worry, overwork, shock, or strain—may go through a fugue where he may know and realise nothing until he finds himself hundreds of miles from home. Such an individual has been known to realise nothing until he has found himself "as far away as America," consciousness suddenly returning then, after a lapse of nearly a week.

It is quite impossible, without some kind of mental analysis, to know what is going on in any human mind. An individual may appear wonderfully normal in every way and may yet be enduring powerful mental conflicts. When these come, so to speak, to the end of their tether, "dissociation" may occur and may aid in the loss of memory.

It is not due to a lesion of the brain. It is a state more closely allied to hysteria than anything else. In the war we had "mystical" paralysis of voice, producing mutism, paralysis of hearing producing deafness, and many other types. These were "functional" in nature and by appropriate psychological treatment could be cured, often rapidly and dramatically.

MENTAL CONFLICTS.

In the war thousands of deaf and dumb and apparently paralysed men were cured completely. And the same cure can be brought about in those who are apparently well one day and the next are without memory or recollection or knowledge of past events.

To sum up, then, these cases of loss of memory—one excludes cases of pure simulation—are due to mental conflicts or mental trauma, mostly repressed; this leads to dissociation or splitting of the mind where certain memories are lost to the main consciousness, though still existing. That they still exist is proved by the fact that the memories can be restored—wherever they may be—under appropriate treatment.

And the best form of treatment in restoring lost memories is hypnosis—sometimes of the deeper state. This is one of the great things hypnosis can do. No one need fear the hypnotic state—a state that can be brought about only with the full consent and co-operation of the patient.

RELIGION IS A "BEST SELLER"

By CECIL PALMER.

WHENEVER the pessimists get busy they excel themselves in preaching the heresy that the age in which we live is fundamentally and hopelessly materialistic. They would have us believe that religion is a back number.

The latest available official figures of the various types of books published in Great Britain during the first quarter of the present year are intensely illuminating. The grand total of new books published in this short period is 3,567. But the real significance of this colossal output of reading matter is revealed when the figures are dissected and classified under no fewer than 60 headings, ranging from Anthropology to Wireless.

It will not surprise anybody that fiction-heads the table with a total of 1,804. But I venture to claim that most people will be astonished to learn that religion and theology occupy second place with a total of 224 entirely new books and 27 new editions. In passing it is worth while recording that third, fourth, fifth, and sixth places in the classification are held respectively by educational books with an output of 216; biography and memoirs 161; politics, political economy, and questions of the day 137, and poetry and drama 127.

In the light of these statistics it is difficult to draw any other conclusion than that the reading public, so far from being almost exclusively made up of entertainment seekers, is richly leavened with (Continued on Page 9.)

"If you would ever get interested in my stamp collection you wouldn't want to go to dances and parties."

The Very Idea!

BANDITRY

By Ed. Kelly, Compradore.

IT is not out of place for us to recall a few of our own adventures at Home and Abroad now that bandits are at last drawing good money and somebody in the Government has found a way of making money without waiting for pensions or superannuation.

IT was not until we ourselves were captured by bandits that we realised that there are dearer people than shroffs and worse things than being married.

You may think we got that last verse from "Believe it or not" but believe it or not we didn't, and if you don't it doesn't matter.

Yes, the bandits demanded $1,000 as ransom and when we offered to go to work and pay it off in instalments they just guffawed or whatever bandits do when they don't believe one.

We got a lot of publicity about this time as the bandits advertised that we were for sale in all the local papers.

Some missionaries held a bazaar to raise the money but the headache got to hear of it and she quashed the idea, and took the $43 they raised.

We were having a swell time with our friends all this while. The chow was fine as they wanted us to be in good condition for the buyer. The service was so good that we couldn't turn round without meeting somebody who was willing to look after us. Whenever we went they accompanied us with rifles and whatnots to see that no one interfered with us.

The only thing we objected to was their language. They used the most shocking words to each other. We only wished the headache had been there. She would have known exactly how we have felt about her when we took her for better or for worse. We knew that the worse could not last for ever and felt that when the bandits took us into keeping, better times were in store.

Things began to change after about two months, however. Replies from prospective buyers were less frequent and the would-be purchasers were not of the same standard as they were at first. For instance, instead of missionary, we had the secretary of the White Slave Traffic Society writing about us and the manager of a travelling circus wanting to take us on.

The bandits were sorry they didn't accept these offers later, for soon a policeman called to tell them that they couldn't keep the game up much longer. He hinted that our detention was illegal and told us broadly that we were not keeping good company. It was evident that we were nearing the end. Things were daily becoming more and more unpleasant. The No. 1 Boy worried because our upkeep had run into several hundred dollars and there was nothing to show in return.

One day we had to complain about our soup and although the Chief Bandit himself apologised, it was evident that relations and the soup were becoming strained. Then a letter came from the headache hoping that we were as it left her at present and stating that she had already put by a matter of $115 against the day when the price for our release came down. We were relieved that she had not found out that we were already to be had for a mere $50 and that we should probably be going as a gift unless the business buckled up.

It was the shock to our dignity we were worried about. We felt that we could not hold up our head in our own house if we were returned at the market price of $50. We felt quite shop soiled.

Then came the day when the Chief came and told us in sad tones that unless we left them soon they would have to offer a reward to anyone who would take us off their hands.

Were we mortified? However, there was only one thing to do and we began packing our bag right away. The Chief implored us to stay overnight, but we worsened. It's great to be British. One can make these decisions and become implacable.

It was a sad farewell. The whole gang lined up and fired a parting volley as we drove off. Fortunately, they were all poor shooters.

We sent a telegram to break the news and on the way back in the train did our best to look bright and cheerful. It was not easy, especially as we were met by a long line of shroffs at the station.

If only we could raise $1,000 we could return to the bandits.

SIX KILLED IN LOCAL FIRE DISASTER

EASTERN STREET BLAZE

WATER SHORTAGE CONTRIBUTES TO TRAGEDY

MANY LEAP FOR LIFE INTO THE STREET

In a shocking fire tragedy this morning six persons, five of them women and children lost their lives. The outbreak occurred at No. 36 Eastern Street at 3.40 a.m., was of a very sudden nature, and was characterized in the early stages, by the inability of the Fire Brigade to secure full control of the situation in view of the absence, or almost entire absence, of water.

For this delay, in the main due to the water restrictions, there have been forthcoming a number of conflicting statements from both officials and members of the public who were eye-witnesses, but the fact seems fairly certain that a considerable delay ensued before the full volume of water desired became available.

The building became a raging inferno within a few minutes of the outbreak in a four-storey building, a comparatively recent structure with tiled floors, but with a wooden staircase which wound round to the back from the street.

People on the upper floors were trapped by flames sweeping up the staircase.

DEATH ROLL.

The list of those who perished follows:

Lam Yiu-ching, 22, a married woman.

Wong Shuet-lan, a 16-year-old servant girl.

Lam Chau, a 13-year-old boy.

Wong Yung-kwai, a 2-year-old boy.

Another girl, aged 13, who is known as Lam.

Tsim Ching, 25, a male tenant, suffered from serious injuries when he leapt from a burning upper floor, and died later in Hospital.

STAIRCASE ABLAZE.

The fire broke out with startling suddenness in the second floor of the building, and as is usually the case with these old Chinese tenements, one of the first parts attacked was the wooden staircase. Cut from escape into the street, the majority of the third floor tenants, comprising women and children, rushed into the lower floor and were either suffocated or burnt to death.

Meanwhile, the Fire Brigade, which had rushed all available appliances to the spot, were helpless in the face of a water shortage by reason of the closing down of the mains. Their difficulties when water was available at long last, were added to by a narrow and sloping street, and by a dense mass of spectators.

LEAPS FOR LIFE.

In a helpless position, a number of the upper floor inmates, preferred the consequences of a leap into the street rather than endure a slow and agonizing death, and a number were injured when they exercised this choice.

By the time the fire was extinguished the building was reduced to a skeleton, while adjoining structures received their share of destruction.

THE FULL STORY.

According to the official recorded times of the Fire Brigade, the alarm was received by them through the Eastern Street fire alarm box at 3.45, and it would seem that very little time elapsed before the first of the appliances was on the scene. Water held up by the official restrictions, had to be released through the mains, and a street hydrant was conveniently near at hand at the intersection of Eastern Street and Queen's Road West.

One account has it that some-one—an Indian constable it is alleged—blundered at this point, for the telephone message he sent through confused the locality with Tung Street in an entirely different part of the City.

The consequence was that was not directed into the right channel until after some delay. What loss of valuable time that represented is not clear, but the fire was killed almost instantly.

DISARMAMENT SETBACK

SHING MUN WATER

FACTS AND FIGURES IN P.W.D. REPORT

MUCH RUNS TO WASTE

The importance of Shing Mun to the Colony's water supply system is revealed in the D.P.W.D.'s Report for 1932.

Although the amount available from Shing mun was over a thousand million gallons less than in the previous year, it was still greatly in excess of the Colony's total storage capacity at the present time.

The total yield of the Shing Mun River as measured by the Recorder and V. Gauge at the Upper intake was 4017.86 million gallons as compared with 5098.45 million gallons in 1931.

In addition 138.41 million gallons were obtained from the Needle Hill stream intake. The pumps below Pineapple Pass worked on 224 days during the year and delivered 48.82 million gallons equivalent to 218,000 gallons per working day. During the year 1864.57 million gallons were delivered from the Shing Mun Valley through the Tunnels into the Reception Reservoir, but a large percentage of this quantity could not be stored and ran to waste. The minimum monthly yield was in May when the quantity delivered was 62.63 million gallons.

MELBOURNE

CRIME

GANGSTER FASHION MURDER

Melbourne, Sept. 22.

A murder in American gangster fashion was committed in Goro Street, Fitzroy, to-day, just after midnight, when a labourer on his way home was deliberately shot and mortally wounded by a gunman who stepped from a motorcar and fired six shots from a pistol.

Detectives believe that the murderer is closely connected with a shooting affray which took place at North Carlton in the early part of this week, when a man was shot in the back while walking home.—Reuter.

LITTLE CHICAGO IN AUSTRALIA

TERRORISM IN TOWNSVILLE

Townspeople, Queensland, Sept. 22.

A campaign of terrorism and intimidation against its citizens is earning for Townsville the name of "Little Chicago." The crime wave is attributed to gangs of criminals being driven from other States, with the result that there has been a long series of bomb outrages, safe robberies and assaults.—Reuter.

DAY BY DAY NEWS IN BRIEF

SUCCESS OFTEN COSTS MORE THAN IT IS WORTH.—E. Wiggleworth.

No dinner dance will take place at the Repulse Bay Hotel on Friday, September 29.

Knocked down and injured by a motor-car, Yau Tsol, 69, living at 3 Mui Kwai Lane, was admitted yesterday to the Government Civil Hospital.

A fatal accident occurred yesterday on the S.S. Semiramis while the steamer was undergoing overhaul in drydock at Kowloon. A head lamp bracket which was being dismantled from the foremast dropped on Ching Yau, a young paint-scraper, who was killed almost instantly.

SHARKEY AGAIN BEATEN

IN 15 ROUNDS BY LOUGHREN

FLOORED IN THE TENTH

Philadelphia, Sept. 27. Jack Sharkey, former heavyweight boxing champion of the world, can now regard himself as completely out of the picture as aspirant for a "come-back" as a result of his fight to-night.

Meeting Tommy Loughran in a fifteen rounds contest, he was beaten on points.

This, following on his smashing defeat at the hands of King Levinsky, quashes his hopes of regaining lost laurels in theistic world.—Reuter.

FIGHT DESCRIBED.

Ten thousand spectators watched the fight under sultry conditions.

Sharkey started strongly, but faded away towards the tenth round when he was floored with a right to the chin.

Nevertheless Loughran was showing signs of a fair amount of punishment, blood streaming from a cut over his right eye.

Jabbing and dancing he attacked Sharkey, yet winced before Sharkey's body blows. But Loughran rallied quickly and finished very strongly.—Reuter.

COTTON PARLEY AT SIMLA

EXTENSION OF THE CONVENTION

London, Sept. 27. Representatives of the Governments of India and Japan at Simla are now engaged in negotiations for a new trade agreement. A delegation of the Lancashire Textile Industries are in attendance.

The new agreement is to replace the existing Simla Convention of 1907, six months' notice of the termination of which becomes effective on October 10.

It is understood that the Japanese Ambassador in London was informed by the Foreign Office few days ago that the Government of India were willing that the convention should be prolonged and the existing duties will be maintained at their present level for one month after October 10, 1933.

If a further extension should be necessary the Government of India would ask for an extension for a reasonable period thereafter on terms to be decided.—British Wireless.

Improving on his last year's figures, but still sixteen seconds behind Jimmy Johnstone's record of 1929, Lionel Roza-Pereira yesterday won the 440 yards free style open championship at the V.R.C. in 59 4/5 seconds, and A. G. Dunn won the H.K.I.A.S.A. open championship for the same event in 61 4/5 seconds.

Yesterday Roza-Pereira won the 440 yards open championship at the V.R.C. in 59 mins. 48 2/5 seconds, and Campbell, setting up a Y.M.C.A. bath record, did the same distance in six mins. 3 3/5 secs. in the H.K.I.A.S.A. open championship.

Pereira was never seriously challenged, not even by his inveterate opponent, Wilfrid Lawrence, and in returning the time of 5 minutes 48 2/5 seconds, was able to take the course fairly easily, no other competitor being able to make the pace.

CAMPBELL NON-STARTER.

W. Campbell, the H.K.I.A.S.A. champion was a non-starter, scratching at the last minute, and Gnr. Gardner of the Artillery sent along a deputy in Gnr. Ellington.

As a result the race determined itself into a contest between three swimmers, with E. B. Roza, showing good stamina, finishing a close third to Lawrence.

G. J. Smith gained his second success of the championships by winning the 50 yards free style for "B" Class aggregate, and later had the distinction of representing the winning V.R.C., in the open team race.

Results and the fourth and final programme for to-day follow:

50 Yards Handicap Boys under 12 (Heat):—1, L. Marques; 2, L. Remedios and A. Ozorio tied. Time: 24 5/5 secs.

400 Yards Free Style Championship:—1, L. Roza-Pereira; 2, W. M. Lawrence; 3, E. B. Roza. Time: 5 mins. 48 2/5 secs.

Open Team Race Six Men over 50 Yards:—1, V.R.C.; 2, Club de Recreio; 3, Chinese Athletic Association.

Time: 2 mins. 42 2/5 secs.

What will go down as a record in the history of school cricket in India, or perhaps any country, is the achievement of the Camp Education Society School, Poona, who dismissed their opponents, the St. Helena's School, for a single run, in their second innings, in the Junior Inter-Schools Cricket Shield match.

The C.E.S. School in their first knock made 63 runs. The St. Helena's in their first venture were dismissed for the amazingly small total of 11 runs and, forced

LEG-THEORY OUTBURSTAUSTRALIANS RENEW ATTACKS ON JARDINE'S CAPTAINCY

Melbourne, Aug. 28.

When the annual report of the Victorian Cricket Association was presented at a meeting here to-night, a valiant effort was made by Mr. H. S. Wootton to secure the deletion of remarkable references to the tactics of the last English Test team. The report stated:

"It is sincerely trusted that wiser counsels will prevail to abandon permanently any tactics that are detrimental to the spirit of good fellowship and sportsmanship hitherto connected with this great game."

The report was eventually adopted without deletions by a large majority.

Mr. Eady, a member of the Tasmanian Legislative Council and a former international cricketer, told the Tasmanian Cricket Association that the English team's visit to Hobart last Christmas was one of the things Tasmania would like to forget.

He criticised England's methods of attack in the Adelaide Test and said that Oldfield (the Australian wicket-keeper) might have been killed.

If the Board of Control sent a team to England next year without first hearing that the M.C.C. admit that leg-theory bowling was all wrong, then it would have to eat its own words and would show lamentable weakness.

[The Tasmanian v. the M.C.C. match at Hobart was described as pantomime cricket. Fearing to risk injury to his regular bowlers on the rain-sodden wicket, Jardine bowled himself and also put on such men as Ames and Paynter.]

KIPPAX SAYS.—

Alan Kippax, the Australian Test cricketer, stated in a speech that leg-theory bowling "takes all the art and science from the game, and on concrete and matting wickets it is nothing short of murder."

Hunt, Miss Chan Wong King.

GOOD BOWLING

The University were at home to the Diocesan Boys' School yesterday in a friendly cricket match and were heavily beaten by 8 wickets.

They were all dismissed for 40 runs, Hunt being top scorer with 20. B. D. Lay took two wickets for 0 runs.

Needing 47 runs for victory, the D.B.S. passed their total with 8 wickets in hand, Hulse being top scorer with 25, while G. Lee scored 16 not out.

INDIAN TEACHER RETIRING.MR. BISHEN SINGH'S FINE LOCAL SERVICE

The many friends of Mr. Bishen Singh, of the Education Department, will be interested to learn that he will be retiring from the Government service on October 9, and will be returning to his homeland on October 14 after a quarter of a century of labour for the children of his countrymen domiciled in Hongkong. They will wish him many years of happiness.

The parents of the Indian community owe him a debt of gratitude. Ever since 1908 when he was drafted to the Education Department, Mr. Bishen Singh has not spared himself in the teaching of the young. All who have had the good fortune to be taught by him remember him as a kindly man, philosophic in his views of life and possessed of the knack of making children feel at home with him. His were not always the conventional methods of teaching, but he invariably succeeded in getting the most out of his boys.

Arriving in the Colony in 1899, Mr. Bishen Singh joined the Government service very soon afterwards. Nearly the whole of his time in the service has been confined to teaching Indian children, at first in the Anglo-Indian School and later in Ellis Kadoorie School for Indians.

It is by his work in the latter institution that he will be remembered best. Since 1916 he has taken a fatherly interest in every lad who has been under his wing, and his advice and whimsical good humour have taught them much more than they could have learned from text books on the regulation of their conduct.

Headmasters have come and gone, but Mr. Bishen Singh has remained at that school for 17 years and more, and although his colleagues and ex-pupils rejoice that he has won a well-earned retirement, they will regret his departure as they have learned to regard him as a veritable pillar of the school itself.

To do him honour, a picture will be taken of all ex-pupils of the Ellis Kadoorie School for Indians at the Indian Recreation Club on Sunday at 10 a.m. with Mr. Bishen Singh presiding.

RELIGION IS A "BEST SELLER"

men and women who seek guidance and encouragement in their quest for knowledge.

PROVED BEYOND DOUBT.

The mere fact that so many books of a religious trend have been published in a given period is not, in itself, a clear and obvious indication that such books are read in appreciable quantities. But, fortunately, I am in possession of facts which prove beyond doubt that if there is any substantial meaning in the term "best seller," then religious books are overwhelmingly entitled to claim this distinction.

The old type of devotional manual and the sugary sentimental tract are, for all practical purposes, dead and buried. To-day the type of religious reading which has permitted the masses is stronger, saner, deeper, and uncompromisingly robust. While making no sacrifice of its essential idealism, contemporary religious literature boldly faces the stern realities of life and attempts to bridge the gulf between man's material wants and his spiritual needs.

UPWARD TENDENCY.

I have behind me the authority of one of the oldest established theological booksellers in England for stating that the present phenomenal sales of religious books, so far from showing any sign of decline, are actually registering an upward tendency towards even greater circulations. Dr. Fordick's "Manhood of the Master" has reached the amazing sale of 125,000 copies; Glover's "Jesus of History" follows closely on its heels with 110,000 copies; and Paterson Smythe's "People's Life of Christ" is in its 17th edition.

The truth is that deep down in the hearts and mentalities of the people there lies a desire to find a philosophy of life which is at once workable and endurable. Religious thinkers to-day, more than ever are recognising this fact, and are making honest and intellectual efforts to uplift the hearts of the people.

plottedly under control in another ten days.

A force of 800 communists, a remnant of the invading horde, was annihilated to the north-west of Yonking recently, while another band of similar strength suffered heavy casualties as a result of a successful raid on Shunching.

GALA SUCCESS.The Fun Of The Fair At M.C.L. Outing.*JUVENILE SPORTS.

Incidental weather, marred only by a short shower late in the afternoon, the M.C.L. swimming gala at Repulse Bay yesterday proved one of the outstanding shows of the year. The beach was ablaze with bunting which harmonised with the multi-coloured dresses and beach wear of the large crowd attending. Everything for amusement was laid out on the foreshore, Aunt Sally, a fish pond, lucky dips, ring-chutes, an aerial railway and a dozen and one other attractions. Young and old entered into the spirit of the event with enthusiasm and the air was filled with the cries of the showmen, mostly Marines, who appeared to be engaged in a keen friendly rivalry trying to attract the largest number of customers to patronise their shows. The response was admirable.

Shanghai, Sept. 27. Doctor Walter Fuchs, the German Consul at Shanghai since August 1929, has been placed on the retired list in accordance with new German legislation.

Dr. Fuchs has steadfastly refused to comment on the matter.

FARMER CRITICSU.S. RECOVERY PLAN ATTACKED

Washington, Sept. 27.

Although President Roosevelt has not yet announced any decision on the questions of deflation or devaluation of the U.S. dollar, it is realised at the White House and in the State Department that a stable monetary policy is imperative for the success of the recovery programme.

Monetarisation of silver and retirement of bonds by the issue of Treasury notes is urged by John A. Simpson, President of the Farmers' Union, who, in a letter to President Roosevelt, blames the bankers for the Farm Act and Recovery Act and finds fault with both measures.

Mr. Simpson added that it was the bankers' plan to destroy the Roosevelt administration.

"The people," he said, are overwhelmingly disappointed and disgusted with the recovery programme. They still have confidence in you; but no faith whatever in the recovery programme.—Reuter.

The judges for the class for children from 6 to 15 years were Mrs. O. C. Barrett, Mrs. L. N. Murphy and Mr. S. H. Dodwell, and their awards were: 1. Peggy Eccleshall; 2. Pamela Shaw; special, Pat Greenhill and Betty Wadmore.

TRAGIC DEATH

MR. M. M. MACFARLANE DIES AT SWATOW

The wedding was solemnized last week at Holy Trinity Cathedral, Shanghai, by the Rev. B. Harthan, of Mr. James Grey Skinner, of the Chinese Maritime Customs, son of the late Col. E. G. Skinner, C.B., and Miss Iris Montgomery, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Montgomery of Little River, New Zealand, and a grand-daughter of the Hon. Sir James Allen, G.C.M.G., K.C.B., High Commissioner for New Zealand in London (1920-1926).

Tragedy arises from the fact that Mr. Macfarlane was returning from his annual holidays when his death took place. He left Hongkong early this month by the China Navigation steamer Tientsin, and arrived in Swatow on the return trip yesterday morning.

Although details are meagre it is understood that Mr. Macfarlane went ashore at Swatow yesterday morning, and returned to the ship for tiffin. Shortly after tiffin he had a heart seizure, and within a few minutes was dead.

The late Mr. Macfarlane was 45 years of age and prior to joining the staff of Messrs. Butterfield and Swire twelve years ago, was connected with the Church of Scotland Missionary Society, being stationed on the Upper Yangtze. He spent many years in inland China before coming to Hongkong.

Mr. Macfarlane is survived by a widow and three children who are in residence in Hongkong. He was extremely popular. He took a keen interest in golf, and was an enthusiastic hiker. He was a prominent Mason.

The Funeral.

There was a large attendance of residents at the funeral which took place last evening at the Protestant Cemetery. The service at the graveside was performed by the Rev. E. G. Powell, Minister of the Hongkong Union Church.

Amongst those present were Mr. T. H. R. Shaw, manager of Butterfield and Swire; Dr. A. J. Skinner and Messrs. J. W. Tate, A. E. Farrell, T. Lo, C. Bon, D. Humes, A. Austin, A. Dransfield, R. SKINNER—MONTGOMERY.

The wedding was solemnized last week at Holy Trinity Cathedral, Shanghai, by the Rev. B. Harthan, of Mr. James Grey Skinner, of the Chinese Maritime Customs, son of the late Col. E. G. Skinner, C.B., and Miss Iris Montgomery, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Montgomery of Little River, New Zealand, and a grand-daughter of the Hon. Sir James Allen, G.C.M.G., K.C.B., High Commissioner for New Zealand in London (1920-1926).

The bride who was given away by Capt. H. E. Hillman R. N. (Ret.), wore a beautiful Chanel model carried out in heavy crepe marocain cut on classic lines and a veil fastened in place with a wreath of silver lilies. She carried a sheaf of tuberose.

Mr. Wong Kwong-tin was Chairman and he was supported by the Secretary, Mr. Chan Ping-sau.

Although details are meagre it is understood that Mr. Macfarlane went ashore at Swatow yesterday morning, and returned to the ship for tiffin. Shortly after tiffin he had a heart seizure, and within a few minutes was dead.

The bride's mother, Mrs. Montgomery, wore a Lanvin model in blue crepe, in which a touch of white, in the tailored bow, set off to advantage the white crepe gloves which she wore and which were made by hand; having insets of organdie embroidered in an original design on the deep gauntlets. The ensemble, by Josephine C., was completed by white hat and shoes.

After the ceremony a reception was held at the residence of Capt. Hillman, 76 Route Ferguason, and later Mr. and Mrs. Skinner left for their honeymoon, the bride's golie away frock being an exquisitely cut Vionnet two-piece ensemble made with a cross cut skirt and full sleeved coat finished with collar tied high at the neck with a big organdie bow.

Mr. and Mrs. Skinner are well-known in Hongkong and have made their home here.

CANTON RICE TAX

CHINESE CHAMBER OF COMMERCE PROTEST

The enormous loss which may be caused to Hongkong rice exporting firms in Nam Pak Hong by Canton's new duty on foreign rice was emphasised at the discussion at the monthly meeting of the Chinese Chamber of Commerce yesterday afternoon.

Mr. Wong Kwong-tin was Chairman and he was supported by the Secretary, Mr. Chan Ping-sau.

The meeting, after some discussion, resolved to write to the Canton Municipal Chamber of Commerce setting forth objections to the new rice tax.

It is understood that if the Canton Municipal Chamber of Commerce, which originally advocated the new tax, shows willingness to co-operate with the local Chamber, another letter from Hongkong rice associations under the leadership of the Chinese Chamber of Commerce will be submitted to the Chairman of the Kwangtung Provincial Government requesting a postponement of the tax, which is detrimental to the food supply of Kwangtung and imposes an additional burden on the consumer.

The Chairman of the Rice Merchants' Association, Mr. P. C. Cheng, explained to yesterday's meeting that all statistical information pointed to Kwangtung's inadequate rice supply, even in normal times, and as this southern province depended so much on foreign import Kwangtung's thousands of consumers would eventually become the chief sufferers from the additional tax.

NEW YORK STOCK EXCHANGE

YESTERDAY'S MARKET

EASY

According to Messrs. Swan, Culbertson and Fritz, the New York market was easy yesterday. Business done 2,310,000 shares. The Wall Street Journal report on yesterday's market: The market declined sharply during the whole day due to operations of professional bears and in isolated instances the decline went as far as 31 points. The decline was aided by considerable stop loss orders which were uncovered through heavy selling. There is no apparent reason.

Most business news is considered bullish. The market, however, rallied near the close in sympathy with the price of wheat in Chicago, which advanced after encountering an over-sold condition. "Iron Age Magazine" report:

Steel production at 41% of capacity. Reports improvement is due to the launching of Government sponsored capital goods program and the speeding up of public works drive. This commodity shows most remarkable ability to come back as the closing rally seems near. Whom: This commodity shows most remarkable ability to come back as the market closed strong and is in a position to follow constructive news. Cotton: The tendency is to await definite developments in regard to the monetary policy therefore causing a quiet market. Southern holding appears to be increasing. The demand is improving. Basis is firm. Silver: The market was erratic and closed weak. Treasury Gold was quoted at $31.36 per ounce.

GREAT AMERICAN RECOVERY DRIVE COMING TO STANDSTILL

GOVERNMENT PREPARED FOR BUDGET DEFICIT

In themselves but invariably supply their customers with illicit opium. The results more than fulfilled our worst fears.

REVENUE ESTIMATE.

That therefore is the revenue position for 1934. For 1934 we should not be justified in assuming that the forces which have been depressing our revenue in 1933 will relax their pressure and our estimate of revenue for 1934 is accordingly set at $31,731,625, a figure which can hardly be called over-pessimistic when it is remembered that as I have just said, our revenue of 1933 apart from windfalls cannot be expected to go much above $30,000,000. On the contrary we may have tended to optimism in some of our items. Import duty on liquors and tobacco are set at $1,000,000 and $2,800,000 respectively; opium revenue at $1,300,000 whereas the revised estimate of receipts for 1933 under these items only amounts to $900,000, $2,600,000 and $1,200,000. As regards the less speculative items of increase for 1934, I may mention $25,000 on motor spirit where the reduced price should send up consumption; $35,000 from the new Ferry franchise under Licences and Internal Revenue and a further sum of $23,750 under Miscellaneous Receipts (Royalties); $240,000 under the same head in respect of the new Land Transport franchises; $600,000 increased water revenue; and $200,000 increase in Assessed Taxes, commonly known as Rates. The last item is inserted with less confidence than the others as although a good deal of new building is still going on there is reason to think we may be overbuilt and such a position though it makes for public health by spreading population brings its train empty houses and flats on which rates have to be refunded.

POST OFFICE.

The postal facilities available in New Kowloon and other parts of the New Territory are behind the times and to remedy this provision has been made for five more postal clerks and eleven more postmen. In addition funds are provided for two new Postal Kiosks to be erected at Sham Shui Po and Kowloon Tong respectively. The Post Office also claims another important item, namely a new Post Office at Kowloon Point. I need hardly remind the Council that complaints from the public of the inadequacy of the present Kowloon Post Office have not been few. At the same time complaints from various Government Departments that their office accommodation is quite inadequate for their expanded and expanding activities have been equally insistent. Government therefore proposes as soon as funds will permit to erect—probably on the lot of Crown Land of which the present Kowloon Post Office occupies one corner—a block of office buildings seven or eight stories high which will hold not only an enlarged Post Office and Fire Station but a sub-treasury, a branch of the Medical Department and several other sub-departments.

TOTAL BUILDING.

As this scheme could not be started without first removing the present Post Office and the need for a large Post Office is pressing it is proposed next year to erect on the corner site lying between the Children's Playground and Nathan Road a temporary Post Office building at a cost of $30,000.00 as shown on page 102 of the Estimates.

AIR SERVICES.

Under Air Services provision is made for the staff that will be necessary for the proper operation of our aerodrome as a Commercial Airport. When regular air services to and from Hongkong will come into existence I am unfortunately not yet in a position to say. China is not a party to the International Air Convention and the question of granting rights of transit and landing rights in their Country to non-Chinese air lines is still unsettled. While traffic with or over China will not constitute the whole of the trade we may hope to see at our airport, it will occupy a very large place at any rate in the early stages. Until therefore the matter of landing rights has been arranged commercial air services to and from Kai Tak must hang fire. It may seem premature in these circumstances to engage an Assistant Superintendent for the aerodrome but the Superintendent is due for leave next year and even with the traffic now existing or in sight it is impossible to leave the aerodrome without a trained officer in charge.

As regards traffic in sight Honourable Members will notice Account in the financial statement.

POLO GROUND.

In these hard times polo has inevitably lost support while the need of the Navy for more playing fields has been steadily growing. Obviously the most suitable site for the Navy was the polo ground and after careful consideration the Polo Club offered to forego the remainder of their present five year term and to accept on the usual short lease a site in a less accessible area. The site lies in the valley just to the East of the site of old Kowloon Tong village. Government will contribute the $18,000 shown in the Estimates for certain permanent works such as levelling and stream diversion, and the Navy will furnish the rest amounting to $40,000. The ground is expected to be ready about the end of next year and for the coming winter the Club has very generously consented to the continued use at certain times of their present ground. Honourable Members who have looked at Happy Valley at the end of the football season will realize the havoc that will be wrought on the Club's carefully tended turf.

MEDICAL DEPARTMENT.

It is a matter of great regret that the Medical Department's scheme have been among the worst sufferers from the pruning process which the Government in the interests of financial caution has felt bound to apply to its expenditure. The regret is the greater in that these cuts cannot but be a heavy disappointment to the Director of Medical and Sanitary Services who has been and is devoting so much effort to bring the Medical and Health services up to the best modern standard.

As Honourable Members are aware we have been obliged to shelve again the provision of a really modern Health Centre. Nevertheless it would be unjust to say that the cupboard is more bare for the Medical than for other Departments. For despite the considerable saving represented by an exchange rate of 1s 3d to the dollar as against 1s 2d, the Department's total charges for 1934 are a lakh and a half higher than 1933. In the matter of Public Works also the department cannot be said to have been starved. Apart from the new Civil Hospital, the accommodation of Kowloon Hospital has been very materially enlarged and $70,000 towards the building of a new out-patients department is down for next year.

CHARITABLE SERVICES.

The attention of the Government has recently been drawn to the widespread and increasing distress, which the bad times have brought upon officers of the Merchant Marine. His Excellency accordingly appointed a Committee under the chairmanship of the Attorney General to investigate the facts and make recommendations for the future. Among the recommendations of this Committee is the creation of a permanent committee to deal with deserving cases and the appropriation annually of an adequate sum for that purpose which has been fixed provisionally at the $20,000 shown as sub-head 17 of this head. I feel sure that Honourable Members will agree that in a port like Hongkong such a step is fully justified.

DEFENCE.

It will be observed that the scheme for a Royal Naval Volunteer Reserve rejected in 1929 has been revived. As already announced in the press considerable enthusiasm for this scheme is being shown by the semi-minded section of the community and being advised in the light of closer examination that competition with the land corps need not assume serious proportions, the Government has felt justified in bringing the scheme before the Council afresh. I may add that if the Council shares the Government's views it is hoped to introduce the necessary legislation at a very early date so as to enable those on the waiting list to start work and training this year, in which case a Supplementary Vote for the necessary expenditure will be required.

MILITARY CONTRIBUTION.

In connection with the other section, Military Contribution, it gives me great pleasure to be able to announce that after prolonged negotiation with the War Office, the Secretary of State for the Colonies has secured for the Colony very material increases in the items of revenue exempt from contribution. I need not enter here upon the details of these exemptions which are to a certain extent retrospective and will reduce the expenditure for the current year. They have been embodied in a draft amending Ordinance which is now before the Secretary of State and will when approved by him be introduced into this Council in the usual way. In addition to reducing the annual expenditure, the concessions should also release a certain portion of the liability under this head which appears as a Suspense Account in the financial statement.

Strong attacks on the Roosevelt recovery programme are being made by Mr. Clarence Darrow (left), the famous American criminal lawyer. Above he is shown addressing farmers in Ohio.

GOVERNMENT HOUSE.

Lastly I come to the new head—Government House and City development. I have already explained the proposal for financing this scheme but I still have to give the promised explanation regarding the new Government House. There are two main reasons for the abandonment of the present house and site, the first being that apart from the ballroom, the structure of the present house is worn out and large sums are being expended to keep it in repair, the accommodation it may be added being hopelessly inadequate. The second reason is that with the growth of motor traffic on the hilly roads which surround it, the house has become intolerably noisy. Another factor in the case is the development scheme on the plan before you. Even if it were desirable to leave the present site of Government House untouched, the scheme involves new buildings which must detract considerably from such amenities as the site still enjoys.

SUMMARY.

I will now sum up the results. The estimated totals are—expenditure—$33,442,605, revenue $31,731,625, leaving a deficit of $1,711,070. The present year is expected to close with a surplus of assets over liabilities of $13,309,801 including the million and a quarter from the City Hall site. The end of 1934 should therefore see a reduced surplus $11,598,781, or deducting the million and a quarter just mentioned, under ten and a half millions. This is an increase on the limit set last year but things have not been going well for the trade of the Colony and we have large commitments to face, $2,300,000 more for the new Civil Hospital, $410,000 for Senior Officers quarters, $336,000 for the Shaikwan Road, $482,000 for the Central British School, not to mention the final half million for the Naval Yard. All these, unless the revenue rises again will have to be met from our reserves. There are of course credits to come in respect of the site of the present Civil Hospital and the Naval Yard, but the amounts and the dates of realization are very speculative and the Government does not consider a surplus of ton and a half millions to be more than a safe margin.

As many as 104 heads of expenditure for Public Works. Extraordinary figure in the Estimates, these excluding requirements such as Government House development, the Shing Mun Valley Scheme and a new Gaol at Stanley.

Among the main heads of expenditure are:

HONGKONG.

New Government Civil Hospital, $600,000.—To complete general site development and cover the cost and erection of steel framework of the main hospital block.

Upper Levels Police Station, $50,000.—The construction of this station has been long delayed. The proposed building is sited between High Street and Hospital Road approximately on the area occupied by the old Police Training School. It will be five-stories in height and comprise, in addition to the usual station accommodation, four flats for European married officers, quarters for six single European officers, sixty Indian and sixty Chinese policemen and interpreters.

KOWLOON.

Buildings

Kowloon Magistracy, $120,000.

The work consists of the erection of a Magistracy Building on the borders of King's Park and adjoining Gascoigne Road. The building will be of three stories and contain in addition to the two large Court Rooms, a small Juvenile Court, waiting rooms, stores for records, cells and detention room, quarters for messengers, etc., Magistrates' Chambers, solicitors' room and office

2nd Section.

Gorge Dam, $1,735,000.—This work is being carried out by Sir Alexander Binnie, Son and Deacon, Civil Engineers who hope during 1934 to complete the excavation for the dam and the erection of plant, to quarry and place about 300,000 tons of rock and about

20,000 cubic yards of concrete in the dam, to drive and line with concrete the diversion tunnel to control the river through the dam.

New Gaol at Stanley, $1,000,000.

To complete site preparation and commence the construction of boundary walls and buildings,

THE OVER-ENTHUSIASTIC WELCOME

U.S. THOROUGHLY ALARMED

SERIOUS GROWTH OF STRIKES

RISING COSTS OF LIVING

WASHINGTON, SEPT. 27.

REALISATION IS GROWING THROUGHOUT THE COUNTRY THAT THE NATIONAL RECOVERY ADMINISTRATION HAS APPARENTLY REACHED THE END OF ITS ACCOMPLISHMENTS AND A WIDESPREAD FEELING IS SPRINGING UP THAT THE NATURAL FORCES OF RECOVERY MUST NOW BE LEFT TO EMERGE.

No blame is attached to President Roosevelt by those who declare the recovery programme to have failed. It is thought that the measures taken will be immensely valuable in their long-range effect, but no attempt is now made to hide the belief that the prosperity drive has lost its forward impetus.

There is, indeed, a fear that things may grow worse instead of better. The gravity of the situation is revealed and emphasised by the statistics of the National Industrial Conference Board showing that real earnings during August declined by 1.8 per cent.

The figure is derived by offsetting wage increases against price increases.

Real wages are lower than in July despite the fact that employment and money wages increased by 8.6 per cent. and 9.2 per cent. respectively.

These increases were, however, more than offset by an 8.9 per cent. decline in actual working hours and by the rise in the cost of living.

The failure of the banks to permit the expected flow of credit to industry is being seized upon in some quarters to support allegations that the bankers are opposed to the Roosevelt programme.

STRIKE CRISIS

Meanwhile, the strike situation throughout the country is growing steadily worse.

The position may be summed up, roughly, as follows:

In New York, there are between 75,000 and 100,000 workers who have downed tools in various trades.

At Detroit, a strike of motor-car workers and tool workers involves at least eight thousand men.

Several thousand are out at Chester, Pennsylvania, being mostly employees of the Ford Company's works, which has been closed down indefinitely.

At Paterson, New Jersey, it is the silk factory workers who are on strike. The number runs into many thousands.

BUSINESS HESITANCY.

The feeling of depression engendered by the hesitancy of business, under the workings of the NRA has apparently been a factor strongly contributing to a crystallisation of the Administration's attitude in respect to its monetary policy for the future.

It is felt in many circles that the authority granted the Executive by Congress to reduce the gold content of the dollar by 50% may soon be translated into terms of reality. This may happen sooner than many expect.

Commodities stood up remarkably well in to-day's market.—Per Swan, Culbertson and Fritz.

SUNBATHERS TRAPPED BY TIDE

RESCUE BOAT NEARLY CAPESES

Two sunbathers were surrounded by the tide and trapped for several hours on the rocks at Ilfracombe, North Devon, recently.

The perilous position of the sunbathers, Miss Byatt, of Kingston-road, Staines, and Mr. M. C. Tebbutt, of Newton-road, Northampton, was noticed by thousands of holidaymakers from Holm Beach, and two men, Mr. Chamberlain, a boat attendant, and Mr. N. Lewis put out in a boat to go to their aid.

After taking aboard the two visitors, the boat on its return to shore struck a bad patch of water, which was accentuated by the wash of a passing steamer, and was nearly capsized. After skilful rowing, however, the boat reached land safely.

"They're going to pay farmers not to farm. They're going to bring back prosperity to the country if they have to kill every hog in it. (I mean the kind of hog)

In a speech at Kinsman, Ohio, Mr. Clarence Darrow said: "The president is brave, honest, and pretty intelligent, I am hopeful, but there is much I do not understand. How can it help to destroy food, and cotton, and clothing?"

CINEMA SCREENINGS

NOTES SUPPLIED BY THE THEATRES

Sarah Bernhardt, the most famous of French actresses, was the inspiration for the stage and screen career of Genevieve Tobin, dainty little Fox Film star.

As a child in Paris, where she attended school, Miss Tobin, was taken by her mother to see the Divine Sarah in "L'Aiglon," one of her most famous roles. The little girl was so inspired with the power of that memorable actress, she immediately decided to go to the stage when she grew up.

When she returned to New York, she insisted so strenuously on a stage career that her mother took her to see David Bolasco, who placed her under his management.

Still a child she played her first role in Wilton Lackaye's production of "Palmy Days," and later, at the ripe age of 16, played her first featured part in "Polly Preferred."

After that she had leading roles in "The Youngest," "This Woman Business," "The Play's the Thing" and "Murray Hill," in which she was co-starred with Leslie Howard who wrote the play.

She made her first trip to the Pacific Coast to play the leading role in "Polly Preferred," later returning to Broadway to be co-starred with Oscar Shaw and Walter Catlett in "Dear Sir" a musical comedy.

During the season of 1928-29, she was featured in "The Trial of Mary Dugan" in its run at the Queen's Theatre in London, scoring a tremendous hit.

Returning to America, she played the featured part of "Lulu Carroll" in "Fifty Million Frenchmen" on Broadway for 32 weeks, her good work winning her first screen contract, one with Universal.

She played in "A Lady Surrenders," "Free Love," "Seed," "Up for Murder," "Oh Promise Me," "A Lady Endures" and "The Gay Diplomat."

Then she made a great hit as the "vamp" in "One Hour With You" with Maurice Chevalier and Jeanette MacDonald, after which she went to England for an important part in Gloria Swanson's "A Perfect Understanding".

She returned to New York and flew from there to Hollywood to sign a Fox Contract. Her first picture under this banner, the "Infernal Machine", adapted from the novel by Carl Slovoda is doing a remarkable business these days at the King's Theatre. Chester Morris is co-starred with her. Marcel Varnel is the director and Victor Jory, a newcomer to the screen is also featured.

Up To Date

Walter Huston claims he did almost as much work in the privacy of his own home as he did on the talkie sets in preparation for his role of the President in "Gabriel Over the White House," daring story of present-day Washington activities now being shown at the Queen's Theatre.

"I not only had to familiarize myself with the working script and memorize the dialogue," related the well-known character-actor in a recent interview, "but it was also necessary for me to read more than 1,500 pages of Congressional speeches and editorial comment as well as a formidable number of biographies of Cleveland, Roosevelt, Harding, Coolidge, and Hoover in order to discover what fundamental qualities an able President must have."

When Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer purchased the sensational anonymous novel, "Gabriel Over the White House," for film purposes it was inevitable that Huston would be selected to play the role of the President who amazes the world when he changes from a weak irresolute politician to a man of iron who wrests the powers of a dictator from Congress, solves the unemployment problem, breaks the power of the racketeers and settles the international debt problem.

For Huston had long since proved himself adept at portraying Presidents, having enacted both Abraham Lincoln and Ulysses S. Grant. As a preparation for the Lincoln role he read forty lives of that President. He played Grant in a two-reel short subject, but for that comparatively shorter experience six weeks of reading were required.

Huston is one of the most experienced players on the screen. A native of Toronto, he was educated as an engineer, but gave up this profession to become an actor. He rose steadily through stock companies to his position as Broadway stage star, which he gave up to come to talkies in 1929 with "Gentlemen of the Press." He has recently scored in a number of hits, including "Kongo," "Night Court" and "Beast of the City."

"The Kid from Spain" promised by Samuel Goldwyn as the biggest as well as the funniest picture to come out of Hollywood this season, "The Kid from Spain" comes to the King's Theatre on Friday.

It is the unusual screen song-and-dance comedy of Eddie Cantor, succeeding his "Palmy Days" of last season and "Whoopie" of the year before. Eddie makes but one picture a year, saving his energy, his voice and his laughs for a single big effort.

"The Kid from Spain" is the story of a button-eyed lad, who, getting kicked out of school with his roommate for "susplous goings-on in a girl's dormitory, gets involved in a bank robbery and escapes to Mexico disguised as Don Sebastian II, the famous bull-fighter. He accepts the acclaim of a great fete in his honour, trying desperately to maintain his masquerade until the minute he is forced into the arena to fight the four bulls in the thrilling climax of the picture.

Goldwyn went to great pains to make the arena and its atmosphere authentic. Bulls were brought from Mexico and a hundred experts of one kind or another put it into operation. Sidney Franklin, the world's greatest bull-fighter, appears in the picture.

under his own name at the head of the procession of matadors, and later in an exhibition of his sport.

For the beauty and colour of the arena and for the gala flora that precedes it, Goldwyn marshalled together seventy-six of the proudest beauties of the world. Song, dance, music as well as laughter bring them into the picture and take them out.

Eddie Cantor's songs get their refrain from the effervescent, bouncing comedienne, Lydia Roberti, who seconds his comedy through the story. Others in the cast are Robert Young and Ruth Hall, John Miljan, Carroll Naish and Stanley Fields.

CONTRACT BRIDGE

By W. E. McKenney

Altogether too many hands are lost due to nothing but carelessness. How often, when a hand goes down, have you not seen the declarer size it up and say, "Well, if I get a break, or if one of these finesses work for me, my contract is in!"

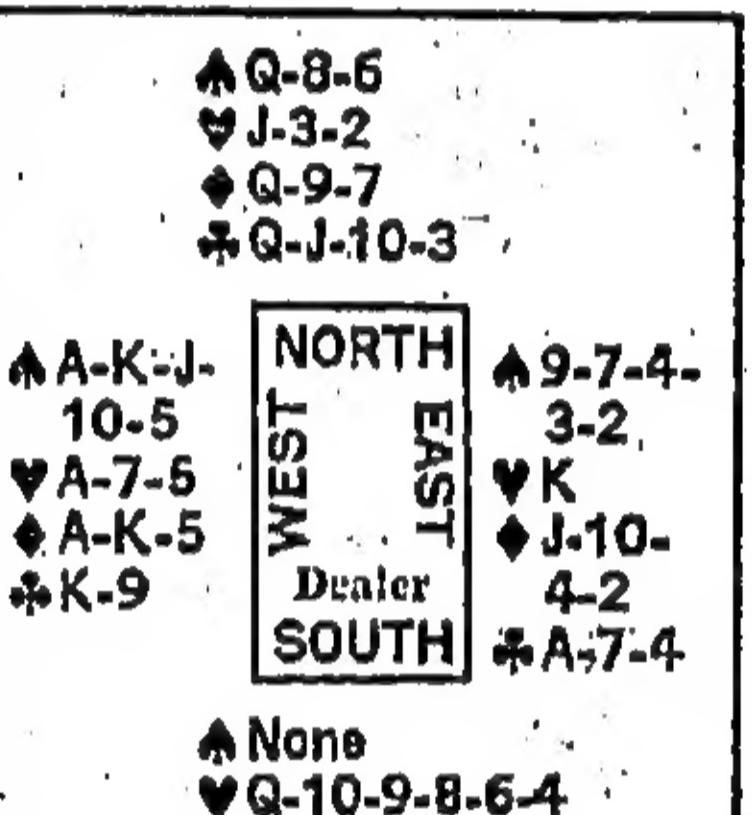

But when you are playing in tournament you should figure on the worst possible breaks. For example, in the following hand, the declarer should say to himself "Supposing the spades do not break and the diamond and spade finesse are both wrong. Can I still make my contract?"

The Bidding

South passed and West bid one spade. With this five and one half trick hand, we do not recommend anything more than an original bid of one.

Original forcing two bids in the constructive one over one system of bidding must be made only with a hand containing no more than three losing cards—in other words, you must be able to make game if your partner's hand contains nothing but deuces. With less than that, open with a one bid and your partner will give you a chance by a bid of at least one no trump if he has anything at all.

Therefore, when West opens with one spade, North will pass and East should bid two spades—his hand is not strong enough for a jump to three spades. West should now make a slam try bid of four spades. Notice that a jump to game, with this system, is not a sign-off—it is a definite slam

try. East can now bid five spades and West will take the contract to six.

The Play

The opening lead is the queen of clubs by "No, th," which is won by the declarer with the king. Two rounds of spades are taken and this establishes North's queen.

Many declavers would now try for the diamond finesse, and if it fails, would complain that they had a bad break on the hand. However, there is a safer way to play the hand and that is to lead a club, win in the dummy with the ace and cash the king of hearts.

Declarer should then lead a small diamond from dummy, win with the ace, lead the ace of hearts, discarding a club from dummy, and then ruff the other heart.

The declarer now leads a spade from dummy and throws North in the lead—and North is helpless. If a club is led, declarer will ruff in dummy and discard his losing diamond, while the diamond lead gives him two diamond tricks.

BOY'S MOTOR CYCLE ESCAPADE

BORROWS MACHINE AND HAS ACCIDENT

OUTING WHICH COST $110

The escapade of a lad of 17 has cost him $110, and his name enrolled on the list of offenders in Police records.

It was alleged at the Kowloon Magistracy this morning that Wong Shun, describing himself as an apprentice employed by Kowloon Docks, saw a motor cycle parked in Nathan Road. He did not know much about motor cycles, but he climbed on to the seat and somehow managed to get it started.

He had not proceeded far when he crashed into an old man who was walking along Nathan Road. Seeing that he had injured him, he became frightened and ran away.

The old man was taken to hospital and the Police instituted inquiries. As a result the lad was arrested yesterday.

Charged before Mr. Butters this morning on three counts of driving a motor cycle without a licence, failing to report an accident to the Police and driving a motor cycle without the permission of the owner, he pleaded guilty to all charges.

On the first charge he was fined $10, on the second $20 and on the third $20. He was further ordered to pay $40 compensation to the owner of the cycle for the damage done to it and $20 to the old man.

Mr. Walter Morley, resident of Hongkong for more than a quarter of a century, passed away at Winklespruit, South Africa, yesterday, at the age of seventy years.

A man of charming personality, although very reserved, his death will be deeply regretted by all who knew him. He leaves a widow and a daughter, the wife of Mr. A. E. Farrell, of Messrs. Butterfield and Swire.

The late Mr. Morley was widely travelled. Born at Sheffield, he spent a number of years with John Brown's, the famous armaments firm at Sheffield, before commencing a career which carried him to many countries before he settled down in Hongkong.

He was in British Honduras for some time, later going to South America, where he spent many years in Chile and Peru.

WITH J. D. HUMPHREYS.

He was in Manila for some time and then arrived in Hongkong, joining the firm of J. D. Humphreys and Son, with whom he remained as accountant for twenty-six years.

He left Hongkong on retirement about two years ago, taking up residence in South Africa in the Durban district.
